REGIONAL W. C. T. U. MEETING

Audience Fills Main Auditorium of Christian Church

CITIZENSHIP RALLY

State Budget Explained by State Pres. Wheeler and Sec'y. Young

An audience which filled the main auditorium of the Christian church profitted by the full program provided for the Friday afternoon session of the W. C. T. U. regional conference.

Devotions led by Mrs. S. E. Logie, opened the program at 2 o'clock, followed by a convincing talk and demonstration on the state budget by the president, Mrs. Eva Wheeler, presiding officer, assisted by Mrs. Hattie C. Young, state secretary. A symposium under the general heading, "Citizenship Rally" was contributed, as the chairman explained, "by the leading thinkers of Glendale"—Mrs. George U. Moyse, Rev. Louis Tinning, Rev. C. A. Cole, Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson and Captain Thomas D. Watson, but before they spoke, two fine and unusual musical numbers were given by two young men of the Seventh Day Adventist church, a vocal solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple," by James Moore with Mrs. Swartzfager at the piano, and two solo numbers, "The End of a Perfect Day," and "Mother Machree," played by Mr. Johansen on a hand saw with a violin bow. These were so much appreciated that a rising vote of thanks and white ribbon salute was given the three musicians by the audience.

The program closed with an inspirational talk on "Boomerangs" by Mrs. Young, urging consecration, sacrifice, and service as the true Christian life, and leading up to the distribution of subscription pledges for the maintenance of the strenuous W. C. T. U. program of "Enforcement," which the W. C. T. U. has laid out for the coming two years.

At the evening session a very fine address was made by Mrs. Wheeler, entitled, "Around the World in Sixty Minutes," in which the movement for world-wide prohibition was traced. It was illustrated by ladies costumed in the garb of the nations mentioned in the address, and the program closed with a tableau of "The New League of Nations." Mrs. Marie M. Yeoman, county president, presided, devotions were led by Mrs. Ruby J. Smart, president of the Glendale union, and Miss Elizabeth Mottern sang.

The evening session adopted a resolution thanking the state officers for their accurate and itemized demonstration of the uses to which the W. C. T. U. dollar is put, and a standing, unanimous vote of thanks was given Mrs. Eva Wheeler for her convincing address on national and international prohibition.

Glendale young women who took part in the pageant of nations which illustrated Mrs. Wheeler's address, were: Ruth Palmer, Hazel Walters, Ardah Edwards, Laura Moyse, Margaret Knight, Margery Turner, Emily Thomas, Helen Vreeland, Helen Randall, Dorah Glassey, and Mrs. D. Jolly, and two beautiful children who represented Iceland and Finland.

Men who assisted were J. N. McGillis, A. H. Koverman, George Lemon, Walter Scribner.

The closing number in which all united in the tableau, "The New League of Nations," was a beautiful spectacle. Columbia, represented by Miss Walters, in typical costume, was the central figure. A large globe representing the world, rested upon her head, and linking her to all the other nations represented were streamers of white ribbon which ran from her hands to theirs.

Over $200 was secured in pledges for the two-year campaign which the state organization is putting on.

New Organization Is Proposed Here

At the meeting of the Glendale lodge of the Modern Woodmen, held last night at the K. of P. hall at Park avenue and Brand boulevard, with Dr. Bion S. Warner, president, in charge, it was proposed by Neighbor Molz that a new auxiliary to the organization be formed, to be called the Triangle Club. A meeting has been called for February 13 at the home of Mr. Molz, 363 West Lexngton, to formulate plans for a permanent organization. The Woodmen are planning a dance to be given the first week in March.

GLEN EYRIE MARK 17TH BIRTHDAY

One of the Largest Attended Meetings in Recent Years

ANNIVERSARY CAKE

Balloting on Candidates Marks Business Session of the Meeting

Members of Glen Eyrie chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, of which Miss Mildred Lyon is worthy matron, celebrated the seventeenth anniversary since the local organization was instituted, at its regular meeting at Masonic temple last night. Balloting on candidates was the special feature of the business session. An interesting program followed, including musical readings by Mrs. George Pierce, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Porter Custer, who also gave several vocal solos. Later the members adjourned to the banquet room, where refreshments were served. A large birthday cake decorated with seventeen candles was the principal feature.

A large number of past matrons and patrons and guests were present. It was one of the largest attended meetings held in some time. Mrs. Cora Hickman Stearns, who instituted Glen Eyrie chapter, gave a brief history of the organization.

400 ATTEND ANNUAL HIGH STAG PARTY

"G" Letters Are Distributed to Winners of the Year

INTERESTING BOUTS

Moving Pictures and Basketball Games Complete Program

Never since the boys of Glendale High began giving an annual stag party have they had as good a time as on Friday night when 400 were entertained in the two gymnasiums, the auditorium and finally in the cafeteria where pie a la mode was served by way of a midnight supper. One of the outstanding features of the evening was the presentation of letters to members of the three basketball teams as follows:

Heavyweights: Neal McIver, Howard Wimmer, Robert Roach, Paul Edmonds, George Jansen, Homer Elliott, Horatio Butts and Gordon Bartow.

Lightweights: Johnny Lovell, Elmer Muff, Archie Neal, Read Stearman, Lyle McAllister, George Farr, Ernest Swaney, and Lionel Martinez.

110 pounds: Frank Richardson, Porter and Charles Thompson, Homer Searles, John Judd, Arthur Shepard, Harry Chaffee, John Heideman.

The program opened with interclass basketball games in both gymnasiums, the sophomores winning from the Freshmen with a score of 12 to 8. The junior-senior game ended in a tie. After five minutes' additional play it was still a tie, but at the end of five minutes more the seniors had won with a score of 6 to 5. The seniors then played the sophomores and beat them, 16 to 8. Then they were up against the faculty team and were defeated by it, 24 to 12.

After that an adjournment was taken to the school auditorium, where boxing bouts were staged by Allen Pollock and Cyril Walton, in which Walton won; Arden Gingery was matched with Carver and the bout ended in a draw. Steckel and Frank West made the third pair, and Steckel won in the three-round bout. Coach Wolfe was one of the judges.

The new moving picture machine was christened by the showing of slow moving pictures of athletes in track and field events, secured by Coach Wolfe from the University of Southern California, followed by an Al St. John comedy after the letters had been bestowed.

The party was in charge of Gordon Bartow and Paul Edmonds, the present and past secretaries of boys' athletics, and the "G. Club" was responsible for arrangements.

RUMMAGE SALE OF TUESDAY CLUB HELD

Bargain Shooters Out in Force at the Jensen Building

Bargain hunters, and that means a liberal representation of all the women in Glendale, are having a joy fest today at the beautiful new Jensen's Palace Grand Shops, where a rummage sale, to be followed by an auction sale this evening, is being held by the Tuesday Afternoon club.

Yesterday committee chairmen met to receive consignments of stock and mark them and before they could hardly commence their work buyers began coming and over $60 worth of articles were sold.

Hats, and there is a fine collection, are in charge of Mrs. Viereck, who is proving an able saleswoman. Ready to wear clothing is finding a big sale under Mrs. Pierson Hanning, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Brown, Mrs. C. R. McCulloch and Mrs. S. A. Davis. This booth opened with money in its treasury from articles sold yesterday at a preview.

The cooked food table is also a popular rendezvous, Mrs. Sargent having charge, assisted by Mrs. Gillilan, Mrs. Verity and Mrs. Rowe. Pies and cakes seem most in demand, but all the stock was disappearing rapidly.

In charge of the miscellaneous booth where, as the saying goes, "everything was to be found but the body of Moses," Mrs. George Smith was taking in the money, with the assistance of Mrs. Boothby.

Mrs. Cleophas found a surprising call for shoes and was able to meet all forenoon calls with a large stock of all descriptions, men's shoes being in special request.

Looking in occasionally upon the scene was Robert Jensen, who, Mrs. Montgomery declares, has been the patron saint of the affair, lending his men to help and assisting himself wherever needed.

The auction which will be held tonight will take place in the beautiful main corridor and will doubtless attract many glad to inspect the Palace Grand under such favorable conditions, apart from the bargains to be secured. At that time the drawing for the first prize turkey and the second prize duck will be held, for which tickets are being given to all comers. Unless the holder of the winning ticket is there in person to present it, the prize will go to the second number drawn.

GLENDALE MAN IS KILLED AT BARSTOW

Police Here Unable to Locate Any Relatives of the Victim

Martin Moses, of 1510½ South San Fernando road, was killed by a Southern Pacific train at Barstow, Thursday, according to advices received by the Glendale police department Friday. Mr. Moses was driving a machine at the time of the accident in which he was killed.

The Glendale police searched the victim's room last night but nothing that would indicate where Moses' relatives are, if he has any, could be found.

BURGLAR IS KILLED BY PATROLMAN

Policeman Conley Shoots Out Duel With Thos. J. Dowell

WAS STEALING HAMS

Thief Narrowly Misses Officer in First Shot of Battle

Thomas J. Dowell, 32, a Slavonian, of 322 West Fourth street, Los Angeles, was shot and killed by Officer Conley of the Eagle Rock police force at 3:30 this morning. The shooting occurred as a result of Dowell being caught in the act of attempting to steal a large quantity of hams and bacon from the Kelly market, at the corner of Adams and Central, Eagle Rock.

Immediately after the shooting the coroner was notified, and he ordered the body taken care of by the Scovern Undertaking company of South Brand boulevard, Dowell's partner, who was in the store at the time of the shooting, escaped.

Shortly before the firing occurred Officer Conley in the performance of his duty, drew up at the curbing beside the Kelly store. As he came to a stop he noticed a pile of hams and bacon on the sidewalk. Before Conley could step from his machine Dowell approached from the rear of the store. He leaned against the machine and when he saw that Conley was an officer, he shouted:

"Oh, it's you, is it?"

After saying this he raised his gun, which he had kept concealed in his hand and fired at the officer. The bullet tore through Conley's clothing not an inch in front of his chest. Conley, who was on his guard and who had secured his revolver when he saw Dowell approaching, then fired at his would-be slayer. The bullet entered Dowell's abdomen and the fellow died instantly.

The other thief, when he saw his pal fall, fired one shot at the officer, then ran around to the rear of the building and disappeared in the darkness.

It is believed that the thieves had a machine parked in the vicinity of the store ready to receive the meat on the sidewalk.

No arrangements have been made as yet for the coroner's inquest, according to advices received from the Scovern Undertaking company.

KIWANIS HOST TO FELLOW CLUBS

Fred Deal of Pacific Telephone Co. in Charge of Entertainment

Kiwanians and their guests, Rotary and Exchange clubs, were given a treat yesterday at the noon luncheon at the Glen Inn when Fred Deal, local manager of the Pacific Telephone company, had charge of the entertainment. More than 200 Kiwanians and guests enjoyed a turkey dinner fit for a king and listened to a most excellent program.

A miniature switch board had been placed upon the stage, and R. L. Sawyers, of the Commercial department, gave an interesting talk upon the workings of the big telephone system. He dealt with the progress of the system in Glendale, and showed that in the fastest growing city in America his company had maintained a good service all the time.

A vocal solo by Miss Grayce Tierney, of the Plant Mailing department, was enjoyed so much that the audience demanded an encore in a very appreciative manner.

Miss Dorothy McDonald, instructor of the operators' school, took charge of the switchboard and explained thoroughly its intricate workings, and also showed how easy it is for an operator to make mistakes. She also gave information, which, if used by patrons would insure better service to all concerned. In her demonstration she was assisted by Misses Mildred Son, Ruth Morat and Genevieve Richards.

The sketch, "Forty Minutes From a Telephone," was the hit of the program. It had a vein of humor running through it, and at the same time gave much valuable advice as to the use of the telephone, and its inner workings. The sketch was put on entirely by members of the local exchange, the cast being as follows:

Mr. Browning, L. A. Park, commercial department; Mrs. Browning, Miss Genevieve Richards, installation department; Vermont operator, Miss Ruth Moran, traffic department; "9" operator, Miss Mildred Son, traffic department; Mr. Jordan, R. L. Sawyers, commercial department; Mrs. Jordan, Miss Dorothy McDonald, instructor operators' school; Piano, Miss Mary Harbor, commercial department; Maintenance, Ira B. Nelson, switchman.

Roy Kent, president of the Rotary club, was called upon and made a short talk upon the coming drive for the Boy Scouts.

Spencer Robinson enlightened the clubs on what the Boy Scouts stood for and the important work they are trying to do.

D. H. Webb, secretary of the Kiwanis club, urged all Kiwanians to attend the Charter night meeting of La Habra club at the Virginia hotel, Long Beach, Wednesday, February 21.

GARBAGE CANS TO BE HANDLED CAREFULLY

Manager Reeves Warns Handlers They Must Pay for Damage

In response to the complaints that have reached the city manager's office with regard to careless handling of garbage recepticles by the garbage men of Glendale, City Manager Reeves issued the following notice to the garbage men this morning:

"On account of many complaints of the destruction of receptacles by throwing them from the garbage truck to the pavement, hereafter any cans which become untfit for use during the first six months of use, which the inspector may determine as caused through rough handling, must be paid for by the men who have handled them."

LOCAL CARRIERS TO CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

The first anniversary of the Jewel City branch of the National Association of Letter Carriers will be marked by a musical program this evening at K. of P. hall, at which there will be addresses by O. W. Wright, president; Ben Davis, national officer, and William Gamble, delegate; dance numbers by Pearl Keller pupils; selections by the carriers' quartet; a sword dance by Howard Fraser, assisted with the bagpipes by Harry Fraser; a number by Francis J. W. Henry, and monologues and stories by Harry A. James Mike Kaufman, postoffice pianist will assist. The installation of officers of the ladies' auxiliary will be a feature of the evening.

LEGION POST DISCUSSES NEW HOME

Action Deferred Until Friday When All Members Are Called

TO DANCE ON FEB. 17

Tuesday Evening to Be Filled With Activity For Local Members

Discussion of the question of a site for a new home for Glendale Post No. 127 of the American Legion, was the principal feature of the meeting held last night at the Legion hall, 610 East Broadway, with Chalmer Day, president, in charge. No definite decision was reached. The matter will come up for action at the meeting next Friday, when it is urged that all members of the post be present.

The members of the local Legion post are requested to meet at the Glendale headquarters Tuesday night at 6:30 o'clock, when a caravan of automobiles will leave for Pomona. The Glendale Legion post basketball team is also planning to play the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A. team at Los Angeles, Tuesday night and desire a good contingent of rooters.

Members of the Legion auxiliary were present and disposed of a sweater which had been made by an invalid soldier at Sawtelle, and quite a good sum was realized. The Glendale post is planning to give a dance at its hall on Saturday night, February 17, at 8:30 o'clock. Mr. Day announced that the Interpost council of Los Angeles will hold an open meeting the first Friday in March and urged the members to attend.

The funeral committee reported that Comrade Charles H. Burris of 727 East Chestnut street, a member of Post No. 8 of Los Angeles, had passed away. The funeral services will be held at the Grand View cemetery at the Legion section, Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. Comrade Vissman stated that there would be a firing squad on hand. Mr. Burris was formerly one of the boys at Thornycroft.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH PLANS BIG DRIVE

Campaign for $60,000 for New Building and Equipment Fund

Plans are being completed for the $60,000 campaign for the new building and equipment fund for the Glendale First Congregational Church to be held from February 19 to February 26, inclusive. A campaign organization of 144 persons has been formed.

The officers of the campaign will be Blake Franklin, general chairman; Mark D. Stoll, treasurer. The organization will be divided into four large divisions, under the leadership of G. H. Schulte, H. W. Yarick, Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson and Mrs. Hartley Shaw. Each leader will have a team of thirty-six captains.

The teams as selected thus far includes: G. H. Schulte, leader; A. E. Angier, A. S. Curtis, A. M. Green, Dr. R. E. Jones, L. T. Rowley, Hartley Shaw, W. Q. Widdows, R. E. Wolcott. H. W. Yarick, leader; L. P. Abell, Myron Carman, A. E. Gordon, W. L. Jencks, W. E. Lusby, E. L. Schuyler, O. E. Von Oven, E. D. Yard. Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, leader; Miss Emily Bell, Mrs. George F. Colson, Mrs. A. M. Green, Mrs. C. L. Peckham, Mrs. Agnes Welsh, Mrs. H. C. Wilcox and Mrs. E. D. Yard. Mrs. Hartley Shaw, leader; Mrs. George H. Emery, Mrs. R. G. Payne, Mrs. R. A. Phillips, Mrs. G. H. Schulte, Mrs. Louis Sipple, Mrs. Mark Stoll and Mrs. R. E. Wolcott.

The plan of the campaign is for the members of the teams to go out two by two on the evenings of February 19 to 26. They will first meet at the church at 6:15 o'clock for supper on February 19, 20, 21, 22, 23 and 26, where they will also receive instructions and names of prospects each night, leaving the church about 7:15 o'clock when they will go into community calling upon the members and friends of the church. It is intended that the teams will solicit between 2,000 and 3,000 prospects.

The commissary department in charge of the suppers will be headed by Mrs. H. W. Yarick, chairman. Mrs. C. M. Calderwood will be superintendent in charge of the dining room and Mrs. A. E. Angier will be kitchen superintendent.

Community Service Recreation Leaders Called to Meeting

The second regular monthly meeting and party of the Glendale Community Service Recreation Leaders' club will take place Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the gymnasium room in the basement of the main building of Glendale Union high school. A cordial invitation is extended the public to be present, and especially the members of the various teams. Mrs. St. Clair Whytock and the members of her team will have charge of the program.

CITY ACTORS PREMIER ON THURSDAY

To Present First Offering by Courtesy of Glendale Theater

"HAND OF PROPHET"

Finishing Touches to Production Are Being Applied

The finishing touches are being put to the production, "The Hand of the Prophet," which will be put on at the Glendale theatre next Thursday evening by the Glendale Community Players. The prospects are that it will be one of the finest things of its kind held in Glendale for some time. The story itself is sweet and clean and will doubtless be presented in an acceptable manner by these capable performers, who have been working for weeks on the piece.

This is a one-act play in three short scenes. It will be Oriental in character and is being directed by Mrs. Nanno Woods, A. E. McCoubrey will be property man of the evening.

The following will be the characters and the players: Halima, Dorothy Woods; Kadama, Clarence Edwards; Sindibad, Nathan Dial; dancing girls, Dorothy Patterson, Kathleen Woods; singing girl, Almena Bullock; guests and attendants, Margaret Kaeding, Elaine Buttred, Nel Few, Mary Miller, Fernanda Pereira, Patsy Medyette and Ruth Spafford; servants, John Tuneson, Frank Bourne, Cyril Holway, Wayne Stinson, Carver Irwin, Dugal Blue, Irwin Bullock.

The Oriental draperies for this performance have been loaned by the California Furniture company of Los Angeles, while the furniture has been loaned by the Page Furniture company. Costumes have been designed and executed by the players.

Margaret Scott Oliver is author of the play.

PICK OUT WRONG TOWN FOR CAROUSAL

Three Find Burbank Police Force Has Nose for Booze

He was as drunk as a sailor on shore leave. In fact, that was what he was, a jack tar from off the good ship, S. S. California. For company in his riotous auto ride he had a stevedore and a driver, or else the driver had him and the stevedore. They trailed through Burbank, where the Burbank police force patrols the avenues, and they all went together to the city jail.

When the sailor became sober he found he had overstayed his shore leave. Not wishing to discourage the navy, Marshal Cole left the matter of disciplining to the S. S. California officers and hurried the man back to meet his punishment there.

The stevedore paid a fine of $30 for transporting liquor. But the driver was found to be driving a car that belonged to someone else. The Ontario police came after that car and the driver, so Burbank knows the three rollicking ones no more; and now the town is peaceful until some more visitors pass through.

POLICE AND FIREMEN'S BALL WINS

Two Halls Required to Accommodate Crowd of Dancers

RECEIPTS ARE $1500

Excellent Program of Entertainment Is Given by Organization

Success marked the first annual benefit dance given last night by the Glendale Police and Firemen's Relief Association, of which Detective Sergeant Royie is president.

Over $1500 worth of tickets were sold for the occasion and it was necessary to provide two halls for the dancing, the I. O. O. F. at Broadway and Orange and the Ferleur studio at 140-A North Brand boulevard.

Special features of the entertainment had been arranged by the committee in charge. This included: Vocal duets by Mayor Spencer Robinson and Harry Girard, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" (Fearis) which was received with an ovation; vocal solo, "Once in a Blue Moon" (Howard Fisher) by Harry Girard. Mrs. Spencer Robinson accompanied at the piano for these numbers. This was followed by a vocal solo, "Let the Rest of the World Go By" (Ball) by C. Epps, and also a solo by George Blix, "Ireland Must Be Heaven for My Mother Came from There," both of whom were accompanied at the piano by Harry Girard.

Keen competition entered into the prize waltz and fot trot, which were conducted at the respective halls. The winners for the walst at the I. O. O. F. hall were Miss Louise Moniot and A. M. Moniot, the judges being O. M. Clinton, Mrs. Max Taylor and D. J. Smith. The best fox-trot steppers at the Ferleur hall were judged to be Mrs. Herbert Mattice and H. L. Burge. The judges were Pauline Paugh, R. V. Elliott and Paul Vissman. The prizes were donated by Mr. Kuranaga of the Japan Art and Tea company.

Music for dancing was furnished by Kelly's Shrine Club orchestra. The members of the fire and police departments acted as a reception committee during the evening. Arrangements were in charge of the entertainment committee: Ralph Dodsworth, chairman; Hugh Crisman, Dean Williams, Ralph Baugh and C. Epps.

The use of the hall was donated for the occasion by the Odd Fellows' lodge and refreshments of ginger ale were donated by the Green Hill Beverage company.

COLLEGE CLUB OF WOMEN HAS MEETING

Members of the recently organized "College Women's club," met today for a luncheon at 12:30 at the chamber of commerce, an attendance of 165 being expected.

A short business session was followed by numbers representative of the School of Speech of the University of Southern California, presented by Mrs. Max Green. A choice program will be put on by Miss Edith Lindsay, student and dancing instructor.

CAR CURTAINS STOLEN

The side curtains of the car owned by Mrs. A. B. Castell, 907 Mariposa, were stolen while the car was standing on Wilson near Brand, between 8 and 11 o'clock last night.

PARENTS AND SCOUT BANQUET

A. R. Eastman, Scout President, Presides at Big Event

The Parent and Scout picnic banquet held Friday evening at the First Congregational church was a testimonial of the excellent cooperation and support which most scouts are receiving at home. More than two hundred scouts and their parents were present from the Verdugo Hills District. The program was one of variety and action from start to finish.

A. R. Eastman, president of the local boy scout council, was asked to be the toastmaster. Mr. Eastman's son, Robert, is a scout, and both his father and mother were present at the banquet as Bob's special guests as were also the others in the room.

As the name would indicate the banquet was for the scouts and their parents and every scout acted as host to his home folks. The banquet was unique in that every scout brought the dinner with him for both himself and his parents. Hot coffee was furnished by the scout council and the Glendale Ice Cream company gave a delightful surprise by presenting each person with an individual brick of ice cream.

Of course no scout affair would be complete without France Henry being there and making everybody sing and feel good whether they wish to originally or not. Mr. Henry with his enthusiasm and action made a most excellent pep promoter. Mrs. Helen Sawyer played the accompaniment on the piano. Additional music was furnished by the now famous boy scout orchestra, with Graham Young at the piano, Arthur Barton on the saxophone, Horace Brown with his violin and Dallas Kalbaugh, syncopated dynamo of the quartet, jazzing the traps.

Eagle and Jamboree Scout Walter Wescott, who was the Los Angeles representative to the Boy Scout Jamboree in England, who also holds the honor of being the first Eagle Scout in California, was introduced by Toastmaster Eastman.

Mr. Eastman said that Walter was the president of the student body of the University of California Southern Branch, and that he was also captain of this season's football team. Mr. Wescott made a hit with everybody present. He is full of pep and had an attractive personality. The keynote of Mr. Wescott's talk was that scouting was the greatest and best organization for boys in the world. Scouting stablizes during the most trying period of life, the time when official government statistics tell us that crime begins, he declared.

"Scouting furnished the boy something to do," he said, "and not merely something to do, but something that he earnestly wants to do. The boy scout program of character development and citizenship training is sound all the way through," he declared. "The program is no longer an experiment. It has made good. It works," he emphatically declared.

Mr. Wescott told of being the scoutmaster for a Rotary Club troop in the worst part of Los Angeles.

"The home life of the boys is in an awful condition," he said. "In my troop, out of sixteen enrolled, thirteen different nationalities are represented. But even with these street boys, who no doubt are living in intolerable conditions, I can see that they are gradually developing into fine American boys—tomorrow's citizens, if you please. Under the influence and program of the Boy Scouts of America."

D. W. Pollard, field representative of the National Council, Boy Scouts of America, told of some of his experiences with boys while in Chicago.

"The Boy Scout movement emphasizes and demands service from every boy that joins," he declared.

On behalf of the national and local councils, Mr. Eastman presented a year's charter to Troop No. 2, Glendale.

Benjamin Robison accepted the charter on behalf of the Troop.

Major Wyman, committeeman of Troop No. 2, announced that Benjamin Robison, who has been the scoutmaster of the troop for the past four years had been promoted to membership in the troop committee and that his son, Ben, had been selected to succeed him.

Wild cheers by members of the troop followed this good news, for Ben is quite a favorite with the scouts.

Walter H. Packard, another member of Troop No. 2, made the assertion that France Henry had been selected for membership on the troop committee and once more the air rent with cheers for France.

Mr. Eastman called upon the leaders of the various troops to speak and some sincere testimonials were given by these men for the scout movement.

C. W. Angier, scoutmaster of La Crescenta Troop No. 1, said that scouting was next to his family in importance to him.

Eugene J. Wix, scoutmaster of the American Legion troop, declared that no greater service could be performed than preparing young boys for future citizenship.

"That is why the American Legion is behind the Boy Scout movement," he said.

"We believe that no organization can exist for any time without giving service."

Others called upon were Le Roy Bosserman, representing Troop No. 3, and S. V. Jolliffe, the new scoutmaster of Troop No. 1, which has been taken over by the Knights of Pythias.

BEAUTIFUL HOME OF ED N. RADKE, TO BE ERECTED AT 720 N. HOWARD STREET

DISC WHEEL OF MAXWELL IS DISTINCTIVE

"Hardly a day passes but what someone comes into our showroom and compliments us on the beauty of the disc wheel, which is a part of the regular equipment of the Maxwell car," says Mr. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car company, 124 West Colorado street, Maxwell dealers.

The unusual beauty of this wheel is distinctive of the Maxwell car and the nickel plated ring which holds the tire in position also adds to the beauty of the wheel.

The advantages of the disc wheel over the old style wood wheel are numerous. They are easy to keep clean, never squeak in the spokes, retain their alignment better, are stronger in every way and in case of an accident, will never crush or break down, and the hardest kind of a blow is required to bend them.

The disc wheel which is exclusively standard equipment on the Maxwell car, looks particularly good on this car, adding materially to its appearance.

"Disc wheels have come to stay," said Mr. Clark, "and it is only a matter of time until all motor cars will be equipped with them."

C. M. BRIGGS & CO. EXCEL IN HOME BUILDING

Among the successful building firms of Glendale, none take a higher rank for efficiency in construction and moderate cost than C. M. Briggs & Co. This firm recently moved from 719 South Brand to well-equipped offices at 105½ South Central, where plans for houses are shown to prospective home-owners and estimates furnished. C. M. Briggs & Co. built more than $100,000 worth of homes in Glendale the past year, and the value of those completed and under construction thus far in 1923 is over $25,000. Mr. Briggs has a fine home at 632 Alexander street, built by himself and there he and his wife are cozily ensconced. He fully believes in the power of printers' ink and has demonstrated this belief by constant advertising in the Glendale Daily Press and the use of high-class stationery printed in its job department.

Before his coming to Glendale Mr. Briggs lived in the Wilshire district, Los Angeles, for seven years, and built many fine homes there.

WOMEN'S BIBLE CLASS MEETS IN TROPICO

The Women's Bible class of the Tropico Presbyterian church met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. G. Oldham, 344 Mira Loma avenue, for a business and special session. The members plan to devote some time at each of the monthly meetings to sewing. The work yesterday was on baby garments for the Spanish women in Monrovia, where Mrs. Snell, a member of the church, is working.

This class was organized five weeks ago and is an enthusiastic and growing organization, there being twenty-five members present. Mrs. O. W. Esselman is the president. At the close of the afternoon refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. S. S. Gilhuly and Mrs. Folz.

DELICIOUS THINGS SOLD AT GREGG'S

Customers at the Gregg Hardware store found their mouths watering when they entered the hospitable doors and found confronting them a wonderful array of lemon meringue pies, gold cakes to which eight eggs had been sacrificed and other goodies of equal richness. They were being sold by ladies of St. Mark's Guild and were going so rapidly that there was every prospect the saleswoman would be free to attend the matinee this afternoon.

MEN WANTED FOR BIG BIBLE CLASS

Men are wanted in large numbers to recruit the big Bible class taught by Rev. Clifford A. Cole in the Bible school of Central Christian church. The men are in a membership contest with the Loyal Women's Bible class and they have their work cut out for them. But with such a teacher, one of the finest in Southern California, and the gang of warm-hearted, brotherly members already enrolled, this appeal should bring wide response.

AT THE THEATERS

REAL TREATS AT THE GLENDALE THEATRE

"Bells of San Juan" and "Peg O' My Heart" Tonight and Sunday

Patrons of the Glendale theatre are to have a real treat when the William Fox production, "Bells of San Juan" starring Charles Jones opens tonight for one night only. Charles Jones, who has been called "the most convincing actor on the screen," is said to be at his best in this Western story of romance and adventure.

Jones, who is cast in the role of the Sheriff of San Juan, is fast becoming one of the leading screen heroes. His feats of daring are especially noteworthy.

The story is one of wild and woolly Westerners, in which Jones won his fame. He plays the part of a young Westerner who is elected sheriff to succeed his father who was murdered. He swears to avenge his parent. The keeper of the local dance hall and saloon is suspected and the son of the murdered official brings him to justice.

A pretty love theme is wound through the story. Fritzi Brunette, in the role of a lady doctor, is said to do exceptionally good work.

All in all, "Bells of San Juan" comes to the Glendale theatre with a good box office record and that tells the story. With a goodly amount of praise from press and public in other cities it is bound to please here.

When the news was first published that "Peg O' My Heart," J. Hartley Manners' famous stage success, would be picturized by Metro, with Laurette Taylor making her screen debut in the role which has endeared her to hundreds of thousands of theatregoers, delight was expressed everywhere. Drama lovers everyhere were pleased that this celebrated tale should receive animated circulation beyond the limitation of the stage.

Under the direction of King Vidor, with a supporting cast of high abilities, and with Michael, the canine actress with the masculine name, playing her accustomed part, Laurette Taylor has finished her work before the camera. The result, advance reports indicate, is a photoplay even more interesting than the stage play. Residents of Glendale will be enabled to enjoy this poignant, heart-stirring, whimsical performance Sunday, when it comes to the Glendale theatre for four days.

This story of Peg and Jerry of England and Ireland and the O'Connels and Chichesters and Kingsworths, has had 6,608 stage performances in the United States. Nor has its popularity been limited to this country. England, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Hawaii, Italy, Czecho-Slovakia and Paris have also seen and enjoyed it. The production of the photoplay by Metro enables all these Peg fans to see the original Peg portray the role, in addition to introducing this pictured bit of loveliness and charm to those to whom it was hitherto been only a name.

The players supporting Miss Taylor in the immortalizing of Peg on the screen were selected with a view of making each characterization a living portrayal, authentic, vivid, interesting. The cast includes Mahlon Hamilton, Russell Simpson, Ethel Grey Terry, Nigel Barry, Lionel Belmore, Vera Lewis, Sidna Beth Ivins, D. R. O. Hatswell, Aileen O'Malley and Fred Huntly.

SUBURBAN WEEK ENDS AT ROBIN HOOD SHOW

A gathering of the suburbanite clan is taking place this week in Hollywood where Grauman's Hollywood Egyptian theater is celebrating "1923 Suburban Week," an event dedicated to the cities and towns of Southern California immediately surrounding Los Angeles. From the various sections of the neighboring country, large delegations of prominent persons are pouring into the film capital to witness the showing of "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood," the superb cinema production which is in the seventeenth week of its phenomenal run at Sid Grauman's Hollywood film palace.

Excursons are being run on the Pacific Electric lines in order to handle the thousands that are taking advantage of the special week being celebrated in their honor and motor caravans are bringing hundreds of others to "the city of stars."

In addition to the regular showing of the Fairbanks cinema classic and the staging of the famous Nottingham Castle Pageant, Sid Grauman is presenting an unusual novelty this week, the exhibition of a mammoth reconstructed skeleton of a stegosaurus ingulatus, one of the giant lizards of the antediluvian era, which Cecil B. DeMille used in making "Adam's Rib," now playing at Grauman's Rialto theater.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS' GUARDIANS TO MEET

All guardians of Campfire Girls of Los Angeles county are requested to meet Monday, February 12, in the Colonial cafeteria, 631 South Hill street, Los Angeles, and have dinner together at 6 o'clock. Plans will be discussed and made for the exhibit of Campfire work which is to be held in the Los Angeles public library all next week, February 12 to 19. Guardians are also requested to bring to this meeting any work of the girls done in winning honors. On February 19, Miss Kempthorne will hold a public meeting in the auditorium of Polytechnic high school, Washington street, near Grand avenue, Los Angeles, and all Campfire Girls and their friends are welcome.

INTERNATIONAL PEACE— HOW ATTAINABLE?

J. V. MACKAY

THINKING PEOPLE today are awake to the grim fact, that present Civilization (so-called) is facing a black night of utter ruin. Kings, Cardinals, Statesmen, Financiers, Politicians, men of renown and influence, are TREMBLING!

They realize that the problems of Earth are BEYOND human power to comprehend or solve.

Ibanez, the noted author, recently returned home, reports: "All I hear in Europe is talk of PEACE, and all I see is fear of WAR." .....

BARD SECTION TO GIVE BIG DANCE

Those who attended the series of dances given several months ago by the Shakespeare section of the Tuesday Afternoon club are looking forward with pleasure to the good time in store for them at the dance to be given by the section on Saturday, February 17, beginning at 8:30 o'clock in the Pearl Keller studio, 109-A North Brand boulevard. The dance will be for the benefit of the fund to purchase flat silver for the new Tuesday Afternoon club home, this part of the furnishing being provided by the Shakespeare and Maids and Matrons sections.

Mrs. Thomas H. Hudson, chairman of the ways and means committee of the Shakespeare section, of which Mrs. Walter Jones is curator, will have charge of arrangements, and her committee will include Mrs. Colin Cable, Mrs. R. K. Snow, Mrs. E. W. Kingsley, Mrs. F. S. Card and Mrs. H. C. Vandewater. Music for dancing will be furnished by the Moniot-Jones orchestra. Mrs. Pearl Keller Brattain is donating the use of her hall for the occasion. It is anticipated that there will be a large crowd present.

NOTED SINGER VISITS CITY

Miss Harriet Bennet, the noted mezzo soprano, was the guest of Mrs. H. S. McCormick yesterday as she arrived from New York city to appear before the Friday Morning club at the Morosco theatre in Los Angeles.

About ten days ago, before leaving New York Miss Bennet sang at the Edison radio station in Newark, N. J., and her singing was heard in London, England.

Miss Bennet leaves Saturday for San Francisco and Fresno after which she will return to Los Angeles to be heard over the Times' radio.

EXCELLENT MUSICAL PROGRAM GIVEN BY SECTION

A program of rare excellence was enjoyed by the members of the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club on Friday afternoon, February 9, at the home of Mrs. E. W. Kinney, hostess, at 123 West Elk avenue, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Albert Leighton, which was directed by Mrs. Gloria Bretherton, whose pupils have a promising future, as manifested by the continued applause accorded them. The program included "Caro mio ben" (Giordani) by Norina Coleman, dramatic soprano, violin obligato by Ruth Overton; "Deh Vieni" (Mozart); "Caro Nome" from "Rigoletto" (Verdi), Marian Bemis, coloratura soprano; "Suicidio", from "La Gioconda" (Ponchinelli); "Musetta's Waltz" from "La Boheme" (Puccini) by Norina Coleman.

An additional treat was the introduction of Gilman Williams, whose remarkable baritone voice was heard to good advantage in two old English traditional airs: "Prologue of Pagliacci" (Leoncavallo) and "Danny Deever" (Damrosch). Talma Encarnacas was the accompanist for the entire program.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with bowls of yellow jonquils, Scotch heather and red roses, which color scheme was carried out in the delicious refreshments served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Spencer Robinson, Mrs. Albert Leighton and Mrs. C. L. Viereck and little Jane Leighton.

The business session was presided over by the curator, Mrs. Warren Roberts, at which it was voted that the members of the section entertain sixteen guests in their homes within the next sixty days in order that each be responsible for $8 towards the grand piano, which the music section has pledged towards the furnishing of the new Tuesday Afternoon club house. The next meeting of the section, at which Mrs. Virginia Freeman will be the hostess, is to take place at the Casa Verdugo church on Friday, February 23.

FRIENDS SURPRISE OLSENS IN NEW HOME

A party of friends planned a surprise last night at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Olsen of Nebraska at 619 North Isabel street. A quantity of refreshments were brought by the guests and cards and a musical evening enjoyed. Those in the party included Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Van Rauch, Zena MacDowell, Zoa MacDowell, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Carroll, Ruth Carroll. Piano numbers were given by Mrs. Carroll and duets by Mr. Carroll and Miss MacDowell. The Olsen residence is of a modified Spanish type of architecture and beautifully furnished. It was the source of much admiration on the part of the guests.

FRIENDS SHOWER MR. AND MRS. SHOEN

A very enjoyable event of the past week was the announcement and shower party given at the Sunland chamber of commerce hall for Mr. and Mrs. A. Shoen. The bride was formerly Miss Winifred Herron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Herron of Sunland and considered one of the popular "belles" of the valley. Mr. Shoen is from Detroit. He has resided and been in business in Sunland for about two years and has many friends in that community. The hall was artistically decorated and on a large table were many beautiful and useful gifts. The opening of the packages caused much merriment, witty remarks and cheers. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

A program of music, recitations and games closed the very pleasant evening, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, relatives of Mr. Shoen, and who are spending the winter in Southern California, were among the guests, who numbered about 100.

SECTION 1. That the public interest and convenience require and it is the intention of the Council of the City of Glendale to order the following work and improvement to be done, to-wit:

First: That Gilbert Street from the northerly extension of the easterly curb line of Pacific Avenue to the southerly extension of the westerly line of San Rafael Avenue, including all terminations of streets or alleys, also that part of Pacific Avenue adjoining Gilbert Street, upon which curbs and pavement are to be constructed as shown on Map No. 538, except those portions which are already graded to the official line and grade be graded to the official line and grade heretofore established therefor, the same to be done in accordance with Map No. 538, Profiles Nos. 707 and 711, and Specifications for said work adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and known as Specifications No. 36.

Second: That a four (4) inch Class "B" cast iron water pipe be laid in Gilbert Street and in Pacific Avenue and across intersecting and terminating streets and alleys along a line seventeen (17) feet northerly of and parallel to the southerly line of Gilbert Street and its westerly extension, said pipe to extend from a line seven (7) feet easterly of and parallel to the westerly line of Pacific Avenue to the southerly extension of the westerly line of San Rafael Avenue, together with all connections, valves and appurtenances, all as shown on Map No. 538-W, Profiles Nos. 707 and 711; said pipes and appurtenances are to be used for fire protection and the distribution of the municipal water supply of the City of Glendale. Said pipe shall be laid in accordance with said Map and Profile and between the points on the lines and grades and at the elevations designated thereon, and said pipe, connections, valves and appurtenances, shall be constructed in accordance with the map, plan and profile therefor, designated as Map No. 538-W, Plan No. 439, Profiles Nos. 707 and 711, and in acordance with Specifications therefor adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and designated as Specifications No. 42, for furnishing and laying cast iron water pipe in the City of Glendale, and that galvanized iron service pipes of the sizes and at the locations shown on Map No. 538-W, be laid in said Gilbert Street from said pipe line hereinbefore mentioned to a line drawn parallel to and approximately twelve (12) inches northerly of the northerly curb line of Gilbert Street. Said service pipes shall be laid in accordance with said Specifications No. 42.

Third: That a cement sidewalk of a width of five (5) feet, with sidewalk returns at Pacific Avenue, be constructed along each side of Gilbert Street from the northerly extension of the easterly curb line of Pacific Avenue to the southerly extension of the westerly line of San Rafael Avenue, except where sidewalk is already constructed to the official line and grade; said work shall be done in accordance with Map No. 538, Profile No. 707, and Specifications for said work adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and known as Specifications No. 31.

Fourth: That a cement curb of the Class designated as Class "B" in the hereinafter referred to Specifications with curb returns at Pacific Avenue and terminating alleys, be constructed along each side of the roadway of Gilbert Street from the northerly extension of the easterly curb line of Pacific Avenue to the southerly extension of the westerly line of San Rafael Avenue, and along the easterly side of the roadway of Pacific Avenue adjoining Gilbert Street, as shown on Map No. 538, except where curb is already constructed to the official line and grade; said curb shall be constructed in accordance with Map No. 538, Profiles Nos. 707 and 711, and Specifications for said work adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and known as Specifications No. 31.

Fifth: That all the roadway of Gilbert Street between curb lines from the northerly extension of the easterly curb line of Pacific Avenue to the southerly extension of the westerly line of San Rafael Avenue including all terminations of streets and alleys, also that part of Pacific Avenue adjoining Gilbert Street as shown on Map No. 538, except those portions which are already paved, be paved with an oil macadam pavement three (3) inches in thickness in accordance with Map No. 538, Profiles Nos. 707 and 711, and Specifications for said work adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and known as Specifications No. 36.

SECTION 2. That said contemplated work or improvement in the opinion of said Council is of more than local or ordinary public benefit and will affect and benefit the lands and district hereinafter described, and said Council hereby declares that the district in said City of Glendale benefited by said work or improvement and to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses thereof, is all that portion of said City included within the following exterior boundary lines, to-wit:

Beginning at a point in the westerly line of Pacific Avenue where said line is intersected by the westerly extension of the northerly line of Lot 1, Tract No. 5451, as per map recorded in Book 59, Page 9 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence easterly along said westerly extension and along the northerly lines of Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, and 11, of said Tract No. 5451, and along the northerly lines of Lots 14, 15, 16, and 17, Tract No. 329, as per map recorded in Book 14, Page 89, of Maps, Records of said County, to the northeasterly corner of said Lot 17; thence southerly along the easterly line of said Lot 17 to the northwesterly corner of Lot 24, Casa Verdugo Villa Tract, as per map recorded in Book 9, Page 110, of Maps, Records of said County; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 24, to the westerly line of San Rafael Avenue; thence southerly along the westerly line of San Rafael Avenue to the northwesterly corner of San Rafael Avenue and Gilbert Street; thence southerly in a direct line to the northeasterly corner of Lot 28, of aforementioned Casa Verdugo Villa Tract; thence southerly along the easterly line of said Lot 28 to its intersection with the northerly right-of-way line of the Los Angeles County Flood Control District Channel; thence westerly along said northerly right-of-way line to its intersection with the southerly line of the aforementioned Tract No. 329; thence westerly along the southerly line of said Tract No. 329, and its westerly extension to the westerly line of Pacific Avenue; thence northerly along the westerly line of Pacific Avenue to the point of beginning. Excepting therefrom any portion of any public street or alley which may be included in the above described district. Reference is hereby made to Map No. 538-A, approved by the Council of the City of Glendale and now on file in the office of the City Engineer, which indicates by a red boundary line the extent of the territory to be included in said assessment district and which shall govern for all details as to the extent of said Assessment District.

SECTION 3. That pursuant to the Act of the Legislature of the State of California, approved February 27, 1893, and the Acts amendatory thereto, serial bonds bearing interest at the rate of seven (7) per cent per annum shall be issued to represent assessments of Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars or over for the costs of said work or improvements; said serial bonds shall extend over a period ending nine (9) years from and after the second day of January next succeeding the date of said bonds, and an even annual proportion of the principal sum thereof shall be payable by coupon on the second day of January, every year after their date, until the whole is paid; and the interest shall be payable semi-annually by coupon on the second days of January and July, respectively, of each year, at the rate of seven (7) per cent per annum on all sums unpaid, until the whole of said principal and interest is paid.

SECTION 4. The City Engineer is directed to make a diagram of the property affected or benefited by the proposed work or improvement as described herein and to be assessed to pay the cost and expenses thereof. Such diagram shall show each separate lot, piece or parcel of land, the area in square feet of each of such lots, pieces or parcels of land, and the relative location of the same to the work proposed to be done, all within the limits of the assessment district, and such other matters as are required by law.

SECTION 5. All Maps, Cross-sections, Plans and Profiles referred to herein are on file in the office of the City Engineer of said City. All Specifications referred to herein are on file in the office of the City Clerk of said city. Said Maps, Plans, Cross-sections, Profiles and Specifications are hereby referred to for a more particular description of said work, and made a part hereof.

SECTION 6. The Glendale Daily Press, a daily newspaper of general circulation, published and circulated in said City of Glendale, is hereby designated as the newspaper in which this Resolution of Intention shall be published in the manner and by the persons required by law, and in which the Street Superintendent shall publish notice of the passage of this Resolution of Intention.

SECTION 7. The Street Superintendent of said City of Glendale is hereby directed to post notices of the passage of this Resolution of Intention in the manner and in the form required by law, and to cause a similar notice to be published by two insertions in said newspaper in the manner required by law.

SECTION 8. The City Clerk of said City of Glendale is hereby directed to post this Resolution of Intention conspicuously for two days on or near the chamber door of the said Council and to cause the same to be published by two insertions in the manner required by law, in said newspaper, and also to mail, postage prepaid, to each property owner whose property is to be assessed to pay the cost and expenses of said improvement, a postal card containing notice of the passage of this Resolution of Intention, and calling attention to the fact that said property is to be assessed for said improvement, and such other matters as are required by law.

Adopted and approved this 8th day of February, 1923.

SPENCER ROBINSON,
Mayor of the City of Glendale.
ATTEST:

Truths in Epigram

Truth is the most powerful thing in the world, since fiction can only please us, by its resemblance to it.—Lord Shaftsbury.

The only great secret of success in life is for a man to know when his opportunity comes.—Beaconsfield.

An angry man stirreth up strife, and a furious man aboundeth in transgression.—Proverbs.

THE FINEST PUBLICITY

Publicity is essential to success in a material way. This truth is more fully realized by individuals than by communities, and yet it applies as directly to the second as the first. The star of the movies, for example, remains a star while he or she can be made to appear as a person of importance. When the goings and comings and habits of the individual are matters of interest and discussion, popularity is not waning.

Some philosopher, usually said to be Emerson, remarked that if a man made a better mousetrap than anybody else, there would be a beaten path to his door however remote. The philosopher took for granted that the yearners after an effective mousetrap would seek out the maker. So they would if they knew his ability and his whereabouts. If he desired to do business on a large scale he would enlighten them as to these points.

Merchants long have understood the value of advertising. Now municipalities are awakening to it. Many cities of the west have found pages in eastern prints have been more than worth the cost. Santa Monica has been conducting a campaign of advertising on a large scale, its displays marked by striking artistry. Doubtless the results have been satisfactory. Pasadena contemplates the opening of a similar campaign. Out of this circumstance are springing many suggestions, some of them useful.

The city as well as the citizen is both wise and fortunate in winning a reputation for fairness and honorable dealing. This is the best sort of advertising. When tourists are urged to come, and homeseekers are invited, it is a mistake to thrust at them exorbitant bills for entertainment, or a fancy scale of prices for land or other forms of investment. Publicity won in this fashion is the reverse of beneficial. If it chance to be immediately profitable, in the end it represents loss, beginning with loss of confidence. In advertising its resources, a community must stick to the truth. It is possible for many communities in southern California to do this, and yet to present wonderful allurements, and opportunities exceeding those elsewhere to be found. It would be well for publicity promoters always to bear this in mind.

ANOTHER CANAL

The United States constructed a canal across the Isthmus of Panama. The undertaking was vast, the engineering problems not only complex but unique. Many affirmed that completion of the task was impossible. Nevertheless it was carried to a finish promptly, and within the estimate of costs. The work had been attempted by De Lesseps, only to end in a failure in many ways discreditable to the promoters. The history of the later construction is too recent to need to be stressed. Already the canal has so justified itself, that there is a likelihood that a second canal across the isthmus will be a matter of the comparatively near future. The suggestion is coupled with the statement that the proposed work is to be paid for out of the profits of the canal now in operation.

The Panama canal stands as visible proof of the value of a vision, and of faith. Men dreamed of it, but only to be told that the realization of their dream could not be. Nevertheless they went ahead. Some of the difficulties were overcome by methods that may have been arbitrary, but the end was such as to vindicate the means. But at that time there was no thought that a second canal ever could be necessary. There seems now to be a demand for it, partly resting on policy. Were this country to neglect to put the second canal through some other nation might take up the project. Out of this disagreeable complications would be almost certain to arise. Such geographical opportunity as is offered doubtless will be utilized by the United States, both for commercial and diplomatic reasons.

THE GERMAN CHANGE OF MOOD

Until recently, Ludendorff seemed to have full liberty to bellow his admiration of war, and to outline the hope that Germany, living up to the high ideals that led to the onslaught of 1914, would yet rule the earth. It was to be taken by force. The purpose was to restore royalty to intimate contact with the justly celebrated "divine right" so rudely wrested away. Also to remodel civilization, and spread over it the benign but somewhat obscure quality of "kultur."

Just the other day Ludendorff sought to harangue the people along the familiar lines of militaristic doctrine, and the people chased him beyond the city limits, calling him a bloodhound and a gravedigger. Gladly would they have lynched him had there not been sufficient authority to protect him in his flight.

These were the very people who would have had to do the fighting had the theories of Ludendorff been permitted to reach the stage of actuality. They would have goose-stepped to death on the field, or surviving, have found the conditions of life even more intolerable than now. They seem to have come to their senses. Rushed into one rash and futile war, they won from it less than nothing. They are plunged into the deeps of poverty. Enemy forces have marched to possess the industrial resources. No outlook could be darker than that the German people face. They have no yearning to have restored to power the authors of the folly that caused their ruin. They know when they have had enough.

Economy on your part would be stinginess on the part of your neighbor.

The worm usually turns after it is too late to make a getaway.

TURKEY'S DEFIANCE

Turkey is said to have declined to sign the treaty so long under discussion at Lausanne. According to report it has warned the ships of the allies away from Smyrna, with a threat that if necessary they will be driven out by force. It is difficult, however, to form an opinion concerning conditions subject to constant change. Between the time that comment may be written and the hour that it appears in print, there may be an utterly new set of circumstances with which to deal.

With tolerable safety, however, it may be affirmed that if Turkey has issued the order cited, it is bluffing. It hardly could be conceived as deliberately accepting the issue of battle; it may make the gesture, but always there is the chance of recanting before a shot has been fired. The people of England also are bitterly opposed to war. They look upon the contention involving the Mosul oil fields as petty and sordid. At the same time, the experience of backing down at the mandate of the Turk, would be a serious jolt to British pride.

Turkey alone could not do much against England alone. If it is relying on the Russians for aid it must have been exalted to a futile hope by the boastings of the bolsheviki. In brief, Turkey would be powerless if any nation of the first class were to accept its challenge to war. Probably, beneath its aspect of confidence and bluster the Turk is fully aware of the truth.

When a man gets his first gray hairs his wife tells the neighbors they are due to his strenuous business cares.

The airplane chauffeur has some excuse for feeling uppish.

THE STAMMERER

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Stammering can be cured.

There is no need for the stutterer to go on through life embarrassed, handicapped and humiliated by his deficiency.

Dr. Frank Crane

Whoever shall spread this information will be adding greatly to the sum of human happiness, for there are thousands of people laboring under this defect.

Here is a story which I find in Talk, a magazine published by the Hospital for Speech Disorders in New York.

Some years ago there was a student in one of the western universities whom we will call John Barnes, because that is not his name.

He was of good American stock, but somehow had inherited a high-strung nervous system which, aided by a fever at the age af three and subsequent fright, made him stammer.

While he was still young his father died and the boy had to go to work at the age of fourteen. On account of his stuttering speech he found it hard to get a good position, so had to take a job riding after cattle on a Texas ranch. He managed to go through college, however, but he stuttered so badly and made such poor recitations in class that he kept up his marks only by virtue of his good written examinations and the good nature of his professors.

During his senior year he happened to hear of the hospital for speech disorders. As he had no money to spare, he was unable at that time to attend and got a job as a mining engineer, a position he could hold because speech was not essential to his work. After a while, however, he managed to go to New York and to the hospital. As he sat in the office of the doctor there he told his story, how he had worked and planned, and waited for two years, and had come 4000 miles in the hope of cure. And he added: "And now I am here, I would give this right arm of mine to be free from stuttering and able to talk like a normal person."

The doctor smiled and assured him that he could probably be cured without sacrificing an arm.

The treatment for stammering depends entirely upon the individual's condition and sometimes it takes months or years before the patient is cured. But Barnes, after five weeks, was ready to undertake employment that would depend entirely upon his ability to talk.

Strangely enough, he chose school teaching. He took an oral as well as a written examination before the board of education, passed, and obtained a teacher's certificate. He is now a successful teacher in the public schools.

This instance is quoted thus at length in the hope that all others who are afflicted with speech defects will take hope. Their case is not hopeless, and there are very few cases which cannot be cured.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

We say glibly "something is not possible."

And we mean it.

For we judge by human standards of comprehension.

JAMES W. FOLEY

And human standards of comprehension are limited.

As with all things human.

They are deliminated and defined.

They are delimited and humanly.

We interpret humanly.

And from human standards we say that a man could not jump over the moon.

As the cow did in the nursery rhyme.

We have finite comprehension.

We cannot compass the infinite.

We cannot understand infinite space.

Or Time.

We think we understand.

But we apply only human methods of thinking.

* * *

We cannot understand that Time has existed always.

That it will always exist.

That a billion of years are but as a second, in the realm of Time.

Because with Time definition is impossible.

For instance in the matter of possibility, we say there is a force so great that it can cast a sphere twenty-five thousand miles in diameter through space with such violence that it travels a distance of two hundred millions of miles and returns about an orbit.

And somebody says: "Humph! There is no such force. The thing is impossible!"

And then we add to the first statement that there is an attraction so vast that that same sphere eight thousand miles through is held to a steady course through space at a given speed.

And perhaps we get another snort of unbelief.

And then we go further and say that another ball a hundred thousand times the weight of the first one is cast through space at high speed and travels more hundreds of millions of miles and remains constant in space and revolution.

And then we begin to get dizzy with figures and imaginings.

And then we say that all of these things have happened.

And that we live on one of the great spheres which is traveling through space at half a million miles a day.

And again we begin to grow dizzy and our comprehension fails.

So after all we are little ants in a very big hill.

We run hither and thither and think we are of vast importance.

But we do not even comprehend the vastness of the universe in which we live.

And what tiny ants we are.

There are finite limits to comprehension.

We speak of a thousand years as a long time.

Of the sun as a great body.

Or the earth as large.

As the present solar system as immense.

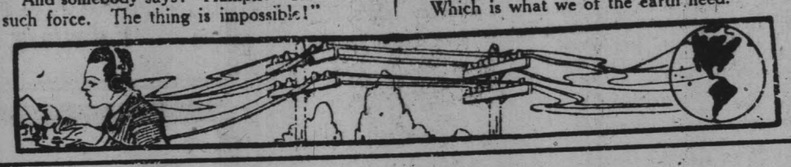
Yet any of them is only a flea bite upon the body of infinity.

And sometime we ought to get the lesson of humility.

Which is what we of the earth need.



Songs of the Poets

A Name in the Sand—By George D. Prentice

Alone I walked the ocean strand;
A pearly shell was in my hand;
I stooped and wrote upon the sand
My name—the year—the day.
As onward from the spot I passed,
One lingering look behind I cast—
A wave came rolling, high and fast,
And washed my lines away.

And so, methought 'twill shortly be
With every mark on earth from me;
A wave of dark oblivion's sea
Will sweep across the place
Where I have trod the sandy shore
Of time—and been, to be no more—
Of me, my name, the name I bore,
To leave no track nor trace.

And yet, with Him who counts the sands,
And holds the waters in his hands,
I know a lasting record stands
Inscribed against my name,
Of all this mortal part has wrought,
Of all this thinking soul has thought—
And from these fleeting moments caught—
For glory or for shame.

PLANTS AND EUGENICS

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Says Luther Burbank, the plant wizard:

"If we had depended upon nature, we should have but few useful forms of plant life and none of the best forms.

"In human breeding, as in plant breeding, there is no substitute for intelligent selection and crossing."

And finally:

"One law governs us all. It governs the plants and it governs us."

Consider those comments and consider in the light of them our marriage laws, our divorce laws, our methods of dealing with the problems created by the increasing army of the feeble minded; consider, in short our idiotic faith that the human race will get along very well by the simple process of allowing anybody who chooses to marry any one he likes and have as many babies as "the Lord may send."

True, both the National Federation of Woman's Clubs and the Pictorial Review have bills formulated which will be presented to congress with the request that they be submitted as constitutional amendments for the regulation of marriage and divorce.

Each of these bills forbids the marriage of persons suffering with communicable and certain hereditary diseases, of the insane, feeble minded and first cousins.

Also, and this is a point I desire to emphasize in the light of Burbank's studies, it forbids the marriage of persons of different races.

Personally, I've always opposed the intermarriage of the races; and yet I know as a scientific fact that crossing of the races—if both parties to the marriage are of superior physical and mental endowment—results in wonderfully gifted children. According to Burbank it is crossing of superior strains that most quickly brings about the improvement in any species.

To be sure the crossing of racial strains among the lower classes results in nothing but the degradation of the offspring. We all know that.

Neither bill proposed has yet become law and I suppose if I suggested that it might provide for greater freedom of choice in the ranks of the gifted, I'd be stoned. But this time I'm only thinking out loud.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

QUERIES

"Wineglassful" and "On" or "Upon"?

Alfred Callan: "Kindly advise in 'The Right Word' column which is correct: 'Take a teaspoonful in a wine-glass of water' or 'Take a teaspoonful in a wineglassful of water'. Also, should one use on or upon in the following: 'Take on (upon) rising in the morning'?"

Answer: "Take a teaspoonful in a wineglassful of water" is correct. On is correct in the last sentence. Usage makes very little distinction between on and upon.

In Addressing a Letter

To William J. Kitzer: A letter addressed to Mrs. William J. Smith is not necessarily written to Mr. Smith.

"Cussedness"

J. and B.: "Kindly let me know the meaning of the word cussedness used as follows: 'You're far from perfect I confess, chuck full of human cussedness. But still what e'er you might do I couldn't keep from liking you and wishing you lots of luck for Christmas and New Year'."

Answer: Cussedness is a colloquial or humorous expression meaning cursedness, meanness, or perverseness.

"Notoriety"

W. J. R.: "Two friends have had a dispute concerning the use of the word notoriety. The belief of one is that the word can only be used in respect to unfavorable publicity, and the other is under the impression that the word can be used in respect to either favorable or unfavorable publicity. Would you be so kind as to answer this letter in your column?"

Answer: Notoriety is the state or character of being too publicly or unfavorably known. Fame is the term generally used for the state of being widely and favorably known. In the second sentence of your query the word only should be changed from its present position to one between the words used and in.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

AN ANCIENT CODE

[Kansas City Times]

It is taken for granted in Greece that the families of the former public officials who were put to death will seek private revenge on the men responsible for the death sentences. The vendetta, which lingers in out-of-the-way places in America, is common in the Balkan states. If a man is killed, his brothers and sons go out to kill the slayer without waiting for any action by the law. In wilder parts of Albania there are tribes in which 25 per cent of the men die violent deaths through the vendetta.

It is a heritage from the most ancient times. The oldest known code of laws, that of Hammurabi of Babylon, dating back 4000 years, provides punishment for all sorts of crimes. But it ignores homicide. The relatives of the victim were expected to take care of that, so the law didn't bother about it.

HAS DONE MUCH

[Kansas City Star]

M. Clemenceau's suggestion that the United States hasn't done enough for France recalls somehow the question that came up to Beatrice Fairfax in her advice to the lovelorn.

"Miss Fairfax," a youth wrote, "I took my girl to the theater last night. I sent her flowers, and took her in a taxi, and got good seats and took her home, but I did not kiss her good night. That has bothered me some. Did I do right in not kissing her good night?"

"Young man," Miss Fairfax replied, "you did perfectly right. You had done enough."

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

In the opportunity to make a great donation to a good cause there must be a pleasure so exalted that the one to experience it is fairly to be envied. Of course to men of Rockefeller and Carnegie rank, giving out of a limitless abundance, the act becomes more or less perfunctory. Their individualities seem remote from the transactions. They come to be regarded more or less as institutions.

HENRY JAMES

To be able to do as Arthur Fleming has done in giving five millions to the California Institute of Technology, seems an ideal privilege. He bestows a measureless good on a community, makes firm the foundation of an educational center, extends a benefaction that is to touch unnumbered thousands. He does this not by testament to be formally probated when he has passed on, and may not know the effect of his thoughtfulness. His liberality becomes actual while yet he retains the faculty of watching its administration, of seeing the results of the benign influence he has loosed.

That this thrills the donor with serene happiness is to be assumed. Others who have been permitted to bestow gifts on the scale that goes with ordinary possessions and opportunities are aware that out of the act there came a great joy and abiding satisfaction.

Mr. Fleming earns the grateful admiration of a wide circle. This was no part of his purpose. It may not have occurred to him as part of the result. Yet now that he has it, doubtless he regards himself as even more bountifully blessed.

When a woman takes a hammer and with it brains an innocuous member of her own sex, it is not surprising that she attains immediate notoriety. In the case of Clara Phillips, this elevation to seeming importance has been prolonged through her escape, and the cloud of rumors concerning her after experiences. Had the murderess been hanged, as she richly deserved, it might have been possible to have forgotten her by this time.

Perhaps it is rash to make predictions touching the present status of the fugitive. It is possible that she escaped without the connivance of anybody in authority, that she got to Mexico in safety, and that she has been recognized there. Nevertheless—awaiting proof to the contrary—doubt may be expressed that any trace of the woman has been found in Mexico. That she is the captive of another woman, and held there as hostage, appears to be a yarn born of a feverish imagination.

The truth is here conjectured to be that at this writing nobody in authority knows where Clara Phillips is, has been, or is likely to be.

Dog poisoners are busy in some of the beach towns. These strangely perverted creatures, quite human in outward aspect, go about scattering meat containing a deadly dosage. It seems to please them greatly to find their victims among harmless canine pets secluded in the yards of the owners. They have been known to cast the poisoned bait even on the front porch where such pets were sleeping.

There is no easy way to account for the dog poisoner. The best way to ascertain the secret of his perverted mentality would be by autopsy. This might not lead to the establishing of a perfect theory, but the autopsy would be a great satisfaction as a fact to be contemplated.

Many millions of dollars worth of property seized in war time as belonging to enemy aliens is to be returned. Perhaps this is all right. At least the clause of the measure specifically excepting the Bergdoll property, is all right.

The business of being an angel to the inmates of the county jail has its drawbacks. Facts seem to uphold the theory that the average inmate is not worthy the ministrations of an angel, and instead of appreciating kindness, is ready to pluck the plumage of the benefactor.

Angela Kaufmann has for a long time played the angelic role within the county jail. Perhaps an occasional one of her wards has been grateful. Of such there is no public record. It is an unusual day when some of these wards are not reported to have abused her confidence, and committed at her expense the same type of crime that got them tucked under her wing in the first place.

Cost of living is going up steadily. According to a financial authority of standing, the price now is half as much again as before the war. The tendency still is upwards. The average person looks about for the reason, and fails to descry any.

He is certain that it is not because the farmer is getting more for grain and potatoes, the stockgrowers more for hogs, cattle and sheep. He does not learn that the producer of cotton waxes rich, or that wool is bringing in much fine gold.

Perhaps the matter might be ascribed to the income tax. The man of small affairs pays his income, without a chance of making good the deficit in his tiny bank roll. There are men of larger affairs who, by charging more for the commodity in which they deal, might find opportunity to make good their bigger deficits. Thus they may be passing their income tax along, and letting the public contribute.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

If there is one thing that gets me more fussed than another it is the man who thinks he is more competent than a kid of twenty just because he is fifty years old. Most of the time he is more competent, mind you, except at such purely muscular diversions as swimming and handball. He should be. But he is not more competent just because he is fifty. Some one told a story of James Simpson, who recently became president of Marshall Field & Co.

"I think a change in the methods of this department would be advantageous," said Simpson, who was then twenty-one years old. He had made the suggestion to the head of the department until he had tired. So he took the idea to Mr. Field.

"Let's talk to the department head," said Mr. Field.

The department head, being fifty years old, looked down upon youth. If the idea had been advanced by some fossil with pendulous dewlaps and rheumy eyes it might have been considered. He undertook to make Mr. Field see his point of view.

"Do you think that a kid like this knows more about my department than I do?" he asked.

"Yes," said Mr. Field. "Beginning right now he is in charge."

The rest of the story, so far as James Simpson is concerned, writes itself. The point is that there were the two men and an idea. The value of that idea was not affected by the age or social condition of the man who produced it. If the head of the department had been really bright he would have accepted it, made it his own, and then bragged about it.

By that means he would have retarded the progress of James Simpson toward the presidency by some years. He might even have helped himself up the ladder. That he was not bright is shown by the fact that he thought first of Jimmy Simpson's youth.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

EXCLUSIVE KENNETH SQUARE

Kenneth Square is so exclusive as to satisfy the most discriminating taste, by reason of its wonderful location and unusual features.

These features include all ordinary improvements, and in addition, has ornamental street lighting system to include perpetual maintenance of light at no further expense. Each lot has an exceptional large frontage of 60 feet. And each has several full-bearing orange trees.

The view is unequaled and unobstructed, the Verdugo mountains and the whole San Fernando valley present themselves from all sides in a panorama of harmonious beauty.

LONGITUDE

on the earth's surface is the distance east or west of Greenwich, England, this distance being expressed in either time or degrees. Each hour of difference between the time at Greenwich and any other place is equal to 15 degrees. Time toward the east is later, and toward the west earlier, because the earth rotates toward the east, the sun therefore rising in the east before it does in the west. The length of a degree of longitude at the equator is 69.16 miles; 53 miles at New York; 34 at Petrograd; 10 at Franz-Josef Land; 0 at the North Pole. It is always 4 hours and 56 minutes earlier in New York than in Greenwich, Eng.

DETAILED REPORT OF W. C. T. U. MEETING

Mrs. Wheeler Visualizes Necessity of the State Budget of $10,000

The program provided for the afternoon and evening sessions of the regional W. C. T. U. conference held in the Christian Church of Glendale Friday, had a two-fold value, first its spiritual inspiration and second its challenge to the part of service which is another name for good citizenship.

In the running scripture commentary with which Mrs. S. E. Logie opened the devotional exercise at 2 o'clock, she emphasized the value of prayer and said: "The contact between God and us is Jesus Christ. He is the open door, the way, the truth and the life. He is the point of communion between God and man and we are of like natures. Had not Jesus Christ been born of woman. He could not have died for us as He did. We have gained a great victory but we must pray without ceasing lest we lose the ground we have gained. If we keep faith, we know we can depend upon the answer to our prayers."

Mrs. Eva Wheeler, state president, explained and visualized the necessity for a budget for the state organization of $10,000, and showed what it was to be used for, exhibiting first the official paper or state organ which goes to the 7,000 members and serves as a medium of communication and bulletin to present the facts and arguments concerning prohibition. For the publication of this paper and salary of its editor $1,400 is required, she said.

Administration expenses, advertising, printing, literature sent out, call for $1,500 more.

The year book or minutes of the annual meeting, which is sold to members for 25c, and which costs the organization $1 per copy, costs $625.

Appropriations to cover traveling expenses of county presidents in attending conferences at headquarters call for $525; appropriations of $5 to $10 each for expenses of state superintendents total $365, and the combined appropriations for the five state officers $1500.

The home which the organization maintains for destitute elderly women, where forty are given shelter and comfort, costs the organization $1,000; the Frances Willard Home for Girls, maintained in a portion of the Temple building, where destitute young girls are protected until they can get on their feet financially, requires an appropriation of $900 to $1000; the home for enlisted men at San Diego, $1250; and the campaign for the enforcement of the Wright law was financed on $1250, but more is needed, she said.

She reminded the women present that out of their dollar dues, only 25 cents is given to the state organization and that it is not sufficient to provide the budget mentioned or the increase needed. One dollar extra from each member, raised in any way, by entertainments, food sales or personal donations, she declared, would make it possible to carry forward the work outlined, which after all, said she, "is your work. You are the W. C. T. U., and we, the officers, are the servants who do your bidding."

Mrs. George U. Moyse, who said it was her first experience in occupying a pulpit, said she felt proud to be asked to address such a militant group as the W. C. T. U. In covering her theme, "The Future Citizen," she dwelt on the training the public schools are giving the youth of the land, saying: "In proportion as the students enter into the activities of the schools are they going to enter into the activities of the state. The school no longer encourages the bookish child who studies for his own satisfaction. The school does its greatest work when it makes him realize that just so far as he serves his school will he serve his country. The schools strive to train for leadership and also for intelligent, critical constituency. The schools endeavor to see that the boy or the girl has a chance to develop whatever powers he or she has to the greatest possible extent."

Rev. Louis Tinning interpreted his theme, "The Potential Citizen," as meaning the foreign born, or the child of foreign-born parents. He made a plea for Americanization in terms of friendship and the respect which would banish from our vocabulary such terms as "nigger," "Jap," and "wop;" for the putting before aliens the highest possible type of Americanism. He cited Edward A. Steiner, of Grinnell College, a Bohemian by birth, and Andrew Carnegie, a Scotchman, as examples of precious material which may be found among these potential citizens, both of them originally poor, simple, humbly born, children. Said he: "You or I do not know when there may be at our elbow a Steiner or a Carnegie or a Jacob Reis, and if we give them the means to do so, they may grow up into citizens of our choicest type."

Mr. Cole, who spoke on "The Christian Citizen," gave several definitions such as: "The Christian citizen is one who loves God first, his country next, and himself last." He also declared "The Christian citizen votes as he prays, prays as he votes, and he votes," adding, "I think the Christian citizen should emphasize the necessity of voting for both men and women and should lay upon their hearts the obligation purchased at such great price; he should be informed in regard to the administration of government in the community, state and nation; he should have regard for the general welfare and when the rights of one class are violated by another class, he should protest. He will support any agency that makes for good citizenship, including Christian institutions. My hope is in the citizenship born in Christian faith and practice manifested in individual hearts and lives."

Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson paid a tribute to the W. C. T. U., by acknowledging the debt America owes the organization in the passage of the 18th and 19th amendments to the constitution. Her theme was "The Woman Citizen" and she made it an occasion to speak of the responsibilities of citizenship and how lightly they are carried by some women to whom they should be sacred privileges. "God grant," said she, "that we shall make our citizenship stand for peace. What greater service can we render than doing our part in the making of the laws of the land in which we live?"

Captain Thomas D. Watson, who spoke on "The Patriotic Citizen," referred to the great work the state W. C. T. U. is carrying on as shown by the outline of its budget, and characterized it as the truest, most practical patriotism. Said he:

"The patriotic man or woman owes allegiance to his government. If he has a love for his country, the first thing he wants to do is to serve it. I have been asked if I served in the war, but I considered it a privilege, not a sacrifice. I could not fail to realize that those who stayed at home made great sacrifices. I want to pay a tribute to the loyal women who engaged in patriotic service. They were always there with good wishes or a hot cup of coffee that went to our hearts as well as our stomachs. In my experiences overseas I came in contact with women in all lines of war work, especially the Y. M. C. A. searchers for those whose families had never heard from them. We knew what it meant. I was six months without hearing from my family, but there the hazard of tomorrow always obliterated the worries of today. To the women left behind fell the great sacrfice of waiting, not knowing what tomorrow was going to bring forth."

Mr. Watson spoke of the morale of the American soldiers which so surprised other nationalities and which he attributed to the women who were keeping the home fires burning on this side of the water. He referred to the high degree of patriotism and devotion to American ideals shown by many of the Chinese and Japanese-American soldiers, and the hyphenated Americans of other bloods. "I can remember," said he, "many a time when I have heard a man declare, 'I am not a wop; I am an American citizen.'"

In closing he eulogized the work of the W. C. T. U. at the last election in connection with the Wright law which at first was thought to have been defeated but which later returns proved had carried, through the faithful work of the white ribbon organizations.

JOHN SMITH

was one of the colonists who settled Jamestown. It was his direction of the settlement during great crises, when the colony seemed lost, that prevented the failure of the colony.

ST. MARK'S TO HAVE MEN'S CLUB

A men's club will be organized in the St. Mark's Episcopal church tonight. The meeting at which this society will be organized will take place in the church at 7:30 o'clock. The call is being made by Rev. Philip K. Kemp, the new pastor of that church.

The session tonight will be in the form of a social meeting, and a representative of the Diocesan club will be present and deliver an address.

AUSTRALIAN TO TELL OF PEACE UNIVERSAL HERE

J. V. MacKay to Speak at the Chamber of Commerce, Sunday

J. V. MacKay, of Australia, will speak at the chamber of commerce hall, Glendale, next Sunday evening at 7:45. His subject will be "Universal Peace—How Obtainable."

"The people as a majority," said Mr. MacKay recently, "little realize the condition of the world today. It seems they little care. On the other hand thinking people are awake to the grim fact that present so-called civilization is facing utter and hopeless ruin. The blackest night that ever enveloped the earth is just ahead and no human power can avert the catastrophe. Kings, cardinals, statesmen, financiers, politicians, men of renown and influence are trembling. 'Men's hearts are failing them for fear and for looking after those things which are coming upon the earth.'

"International peace conferences, leagues of nations, disarmament moves and other efforts are meeting with defeat and utterly failing to bring about the desired universal peace. On the contrary, with ever increasing momentum the world continues its plunge into the depths of complete destruction. Truly a black and hopeless view if Divine power were not to intercede.

"Universal peace is a possibility and will come in the most unexpected manner. Bible students and faithful scholars of prophecy have long declared that this time of distress upon the nations is but an indication that the Prince of Peace, Christ Jesus, is present and is establishing His righteous Kingdom upon the earth. Though quiet and unassuming at present, this Kingdom will take complete control of earth's affairs when man has reached the limit of his folly. 'Man's extremity is God's opportunity.' Then Christ, the long promised Messiah, the great and glorious King of this Kingdom will speak peace to the troubled peoples and His righteous laws will begin to operate for the very purpose of 'Blessing all the families of the earth.'"

The lecture is entirely free and an invitation is extended to all.

FANSET DYE WORKS WILL CELEBRATE

As a fitting celebration of its ninth birthday, nine years of service to the people of Glendale, the Fanset Dye Works, temporarily located at 108 South Brand, will celebrate next week with a "dollar week." During dollar week, this well-established firm will clean and press men's and women's suits and overcoats for one dollar, that is, the charge of one dollar will cover the cost of cleaning and pressing both the suit and the overcoat.

Mr. John H. Fanset, owner of the Fanset Dye Works has been a Glendale resident for a number of years. When he first established his business here, Glendale was "small but promising." His unexcelled work built up the Fanset Dye Works, until now it enjoys one of the largest businesses in the city. In order to give still more service and to provide more room for his plant here, Mr. Fanset will open about February 15 at shop No. 1 of the Court Shops at 211 East Broadway.

"Our new location will enable us to give still better service to the people of Glendale," said Mr. Fanset this morning, "but," he continued, "in the meantime and particularly during dollar week, if you want quick service and quality work just telephone Glendale 155."

FASHION SCOUTS RETURN FROM NORTH

M. J. McKinnon and R. L. Dines have just returned from a week's tour of northern California by automobile. They stopped en route at many points and called on friends.

In San Francisco and Sacramento they spent considerable time investigating the latest things in the ready-to-wear lines, and got a line on the styles that are having the best sale this season. Considerable time was spent in San Francisco buying goods from the big eastern representatives who have headquarters in the Bay City. The Fashion Center will soon begin to receive new goods from New York as a result of their extended stay in San Francisco.

KING'S DAUGHTERS REORGANIZED, HAS MEETING

Members of the reorganized "Daughters of the King," a society of young women of St. Mark's Episcopal church, were entertained Friday evening at the home of Miss Ellen Williams. Bible study followed a short business session, and after that the girls enjoyed a social hour during which refreshments were served by the hostess. The society will meet twice monthly, one meeting being in the afternoon, the other in the evening. The next one will be held at 2:30 in the parish hall, February 21.

KNOWLEDGE

Nay, let us not forget the grief
The sorrow and the pain;
Nor shall we pray that never these
Shall come to us again.
How cold and hard these hearts of ours,
Grown tender through the years
Of trial, if the soil of them
Were never wet with tears.

How could we speak the cheering word
Had never we known woe?
How know the height with rapture stirred
If never fallen low?
How soothe the hot and aching brow,
Love's ministry attain,
And bring the touch of comfort now
If never we knew pain?

Ah yes, it is the sorrow keen,
The tears that flow and flow,
That make the sere soul soft and green
Like earth is after snow
And cold and frost have come and gone,
And flowers bloom and spring,
And there is light of Summer's dawn,
And joy through everything.

Nay, let us not forget the grief,
Nor pray that we be spared
The rugged path, the rock, the reef,
The struggles men have shared
Through all of time, for if my heart
Shall suffer not or bleed,
How shall I learn a brother's part,
How shall I know thy need?

SUNDAY EVE SERMON SERIES BY REV. EDMONDS

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church, will tomorrow begin a series of Sunday evening sermons. The spirit of these messages will be based on Sidney Watson's book, "The Mark of the Beast." For a number of years past, at some time during the winter season, such a series has been preached by Mr. Edmonds and in each case the basis of the messages has been one of Sidney Watson's books. A year ago the book used was "Scarlet and Purple." In the past these messages have attracted many hearers and the interest of the audience has grown and increased until the very end. There have been numerous requests, especially from the young people, that a similar series be given during the present winter. It is in response to these requests that the present series of sermons has been planned. While each message will be complete in itself, there will be added interest if one is able to hear all the messages from beginning to end.

"The Mark of the Beast," was written about ten years ago, and some of the startling things which it portrays have stirred the world profoundly. This book is dedicated to Rev. G. Campbell Morgan by his own permission. It has been received with great interest all over the church world. Its presentations have quickened and awakened the already intense and growing interest in the whole subject of "The Lord's Coming."

ANOTHER PIONEER'S RANCH YIELDS TO GLENDALE'S GROWTH

HAHN PROPERTY SUBDIVIDED BY EDWARDS & WILDEY AFTER 50 YEARS OF SINGLE OWNERSHIP

Right in Path of Glendale's Great Development in Year of the City's Greatest Growth, It Is Announced

MORE THAN 90 ACRES IN TRACT

To Be Known as Kenilworth Park; It Is Surrounded by Some of the Best Residential Development in the District

At last the Hahn property in Glendale is being subdivided. Known to nearly every resident of this city for its ideal location right in the path of Glendale's greatest development, the announcement of its final subdividing has been expected for years.

The Edwards & Wildey Co., one of the pioneer real estate firms of Southern California, bought the land which comprises more than ninety acres. They have named the new subdivision Kenilworth Park and the first unit of the property will be opened today for reservations.

The new tract is bounded by Glenwood Road on the north, the Glendale-Burbank car line on the south and Kenilworth avenue on the east.

For 50 years the Hahn property remained intact as acreage while Glendale built up nearly solid around it. Time and again tempting offers were made to buy the piece for subdivision purposes but always for sentimental reasons the owners would not sell until the Edwards & Wildey company finally turned the deal a few days ago.

Kenilworth Park is surrounded by some of the best residential development in the district and homes are built up nearly solid to the boundaries of the tract. Stores and one of Glendale's finest schools are within a few short blocks.

Kenilworth Park residents will enjoy perfect transportation facilities as the Glendale-Burbank car line goes right through the property with a car stop on the tract and the regular Glendale car service is within a few blocks.

One of the most promising features of the new subdivision is the new Glendale Municipal Park which borders the property. It is here that the city will invest thousands of dollars in making it one of the showplaces of the foothill district.

The new city park will have two delightful public swimming pools, one of which is already completed. Some of the best talent in Southern California has been employed to plan and lay out the landscape gardening which will be one of the finest examples of the gardeners' art to be found in the state.

The Edwards & Wildey company is rushing an extensive program of improvements for the new tract including cement sidewalks, curbs, crushed rock streets, gas, water and electricity.

It is said that the lots in Kenilworth Park will sell for $1,150 and up, including all improvements. Special terms have been made for the pre-opening sale, it is said.

Commenting on the new property Mr. Otto Wildey of the firm declared: "We were fortunate in buying the Hahn property at acreage prices away under prices asked for surrounding property. It is really the last piece of low priced acreage in the Glendale district. This fortunate purchase allows us to market the lots at remarkably low prices which I believe Glendale residents will be quick to appreciate."

BETTER HOMES IS U. S. PLAN

Cheaper and more durable homes for the American people is the object of a report made public by the building code committee of the Department of Commerce.

The committee was appointed by Secretary Hoover to investigate building practice and code requirements in the United States and to prepare standard building regulations based on the latest and best information which might be recommended to cities and states adopting or revising building codes.

Secretary Hoover characterized the report of the committee, which deals particularly with one and two-family dwellings, as having a value far beyond any similar work undertaken to date.

The committee has recommended in its report the minimum requirements which it believes should be enforced by cities in their building codes for one and two-family houses and in an appendix discusses good practice in small house construction.

The 100-page printed report now made available at nominal price to all interested in better and more economical housing construction, by the Department of Commerce, not only presents a model ordinance which cities may adopt, but serves as a guide to all those interested in showing where to have and where to spend in order to obtain a safe, subetantial and durable house at a minimum cost.

IT PAYS TO BUY THE GARDEN SEED EARLY

Fireside gardening, or more literally speaking in these more modern days, radiator gardening, is one of the most popular winter pastimes and steadily growing in popularity. It is the season for it now. It consists of dreaming and making your garden on paper.

Half the success of gardening depends upon a proper plan. Of course it is possible to make a reasonably good garden by going at it with nothing but the ground and a supply of seeds before you, but if a plan is drawn and you know just exactly what and how much you are going to plant, and just where in your garden patch you are going to plant it you have a working basis that will save a great amount of time and labor and produce considerable economy in production. And, besides, how much better looking!

Take a tape measure (the fifty-foot tapes sold in reels at hardware stores are the most convenient) and measure the length and width of the plot you have set aside for a garden. Make a plan of the same proportions to scale on paper.

Mark down the places on the plotted garden where you expect to plant the different vegetables. Straight rows north and south are best and much easier to care for than square or oblong beds. They also make succession and companion planting easier.

Allow for the proper spacing between the rows and mark each row for the vegetable you intend to plant there.

The minimum space between rows is usually determined by the cultivating tools you use. For a wheel hoe, 12 to 18 inches is the usual allowance. Make it just right for a thorough job of cultivating with one trip down the aisle. Where horse cultivators are used, three feet is the minimum distance. In general, the closer the rows the richer the soil should be, or the more heavily fertilized. The distance between plants in the row will vary with the plants. Catalogues and packets give this data usually. In some cases, as with corn, cabbages, cauliflower, the larger head lettuces and the vine crops, extra width between rows must be allowed because of the needs of the plant. If rows are planted too closely it becomes a difficult task to hoe and keep them weeded.

When you come to transfer your plan, follow it strictly and do not be tempted to make the rows closer together because the tiny plants seem so lonesomely far apart or the tiny seeds don't look as if they would ever grow to fill the space allotted. They make a fast growth if given half a chance and will have none too much room. Remember that they need even more room underground to forage for food with the widely extended and fine root systems than they need above ground for their leaves and stems.

NEW BRAND OWNER WILL IMPROVE PROPERTY

C. L. Viereck of 311 East Stocker street, has bought 100 feet on the northwest corner of Lexington and Brand from Dr. Parker, through Mrs. Commons of the Endicott company. The new owner plans to improve the property with a business and apartment house block.

CHARM OF ARCHWAY APPEALS MORE AND MORE

More and more the charm of line in the curve of an arcade or archway and the mellow tones of plaster walls have an appeal that in the minds of many are crystallizing the choice of architectural design to that of the Spanish style.

The thought of this type of home just seems to visualize a restful beauty in sand-colored plastered walls, wrought iron sconces, lamps, grille work, consoles and flower stands.

It is nice to have some of the floors in marble, tile or brick over which the hand-tufted rugs look so well.

Against the plain walls in pleasing contrast draw curtains of a rich material like velour, damask or crewel embroidered linen, which will make a splendid treatment, with glass curtains of silk gauze finished at the bottom with fringe trimming.

The furniture should be chosen with the thought of dominating the room with the Spanish style, yet let comfort pervade the room in enough overstuffed furniture to make it satisfying.

Arrange the rooms in centers of interest, each developed for a definite purpose; that is, a center for the master, for the mother, for reading, writing, music, etc., not forgetting the corner for the child.

There is always a sense of the artistic when a painting of universal appeal is found inset in the plaster over the fireplace.

In a room of this kind the art objects, pictures and wall tapestries should be few in number and very worthwhile.

Next to the living room the patio is of most importance, for here we enter the outdoor living room or closed-in garden.

We arrange the patio much as we would a room, developing the light, shadow and color through trees, shrubs and flowers.

Then before the water pool the stone, marble or wrought iron bench and out in the open it is nice to watch the birds come to the bird bath for their morning dip and to bear the musical trickle of the fountain and to see the lovely flowers just where they lend a note of cheer and all through the patio to find comfortable outdoor furniture that will tempt us to take a little siesta, and then to awaken to find the sun dial reflecting just the hour of the day.

IT PAYS TO PLAN WELL FOR GARDEN

Early orders sent to the seedsman are most certain to be filled with the varieties desired, and delay in ordering is always risky. Often there is a big demand for a certain variety, either of vegetable or flower, and the supply is exhausted and substitution has to be made by the seedsman or the buyer. This disappointment is easily avoided by being forehanded.

The same advice holds true in the ordering of bulbs and plants, even though the plants are not to be delivered before May 1. The orders will be booked in rotation and filled in due season.

In the ordering of the choicer varieties of the summer flowering bulbs, particularly gladiolus, an early order is essential if you wish to be certain of securing the desired variety. Some of the standard varieties of gladiolus have become so popular that last season the stock of some of them was exhausted early. This is also true of cannas and the newer dahlias, which are growing into the most popular flower of the fall season.

It is never a mistake to order early while delay very frequently leads to disappointment. Another feature of early ordering is that the seeds are on hand when it is time to start them, and there is no delay in planting. Often a gardener finds time to do early planting, but finds himself without the seeds, and is forced to delay a few days to two weeks to secure the seeds. That much time in growth is lost and the season curtailed by just that much.

Early orders for garden tools, potting material, soap boxes to be converted into flats, paper pots for transplanting, insecticides and fertilizers are also a part of the schedule of a first-class gardener who is always a disciple of preparedness for the warfare on insect enemies and fungus pests he knows he will be called upon to wage at one time or another during the season.

SUBURBAN CITIES ALLIANCE IS PLAN OF BIG MEETING

By JOHN H. GERRIE
Civic Development Expert

The suburban cities of the Los Angeles metropolitan area are going to "get together." At least, an effort is to be made to bring them together by the City club of the mother metropolis.

As the result of answers received to the questionnaire recently sent out by the City club a general meeting of representatives of some thirty neighboring communities has been called for noon on Saturday, February 17, in the rooms of the City club in the Chapman building, Los Angeles. At that meeting a plan of "borough" government" under metropolitan supervision will be discussed.

The chambers of commerce and other civic and business organizations of all suburban cities will be invited to send representatives to the meeting. Prominent men will be asked to speak for and against a working alliance among all communities of the metropolitan area.

The meeting in the City club promises to be epochal. Judging from answers returned to the questionaire sent out by the club's inter-city committee, a very strong demand exists in suburban towns for some general plan for working out the problems of development common to all. That there is a wide variance of opinion as to form of plan does not lessen the potency of the demand.

Inclusion of Los Angeles itself in the proposed alliance of cities is by no means unanimous, though in the majority of answers it is conceded that no inter-city pact would be workable without the presence of the mother metropolis. Many of those who answered made the point clear that their desires for a civic alliance must not be construed as favoring annexation now or in the future.

The inter-city committee prefaced its questionaire, which was sent to leading citizens occupying official or semi-official positions in the suburban cities, with this question:

"If Los Angeles and the surrounding cities should be organized into one great metropolitan unit, with jurisdiction over local matters reserved to local boroughs, which functions of municipal government should be assigned to the general metropolitan government and which reserved to local boroughs?" It was specifically stated that answers in no way would commit any one so answering to a plan for consolidation of city governments or of borough establishment.

The questionaire was made up of thirty-three separate items embracing all the public utilities, local legislation, city planning, various civic departments, streets, schools, taxes and other public matters. The division of these between metropolitan and local government figured about 50-50 with a majority of those who returned answers.

The opinion was strong that city planning ought to be under metropolitan jurisdiction to ensure harmony and highest results throughout all the district. The problems of water supply, sewage disposal, transportation, boulevard construction, park sites, telephone, gas and electricity were generally voted into the same category.

The building and supervision of schools was more variably assigned, as also were control of fire, health and police departments, amusements, garbage, traffic regulations and taxation. Ordinary street opening and maintenance was widely voted into the local column, as also were local street car service, building inspection, library service, playgrounds, purchasing, tree planting and zoning.

The purpose of the questionaire was to discover, free from argument, the existing public sentiment on the points involved. Some hundreds of answers received are now being tabulated and analyzed and will be presented for open discussion at the City club meeting on the 17th instant. The result of that meeting may be far reaching.

BETTER WIRING IS NEED OF THE HOME

Through study and research, engineering feats and hard work the electrical industry has made available and brought to the door of the people of Southern California cheap hydro-electric power to solve the many problems of the home.

Cheap hydro-electric power is now available and can economically be used in the home, not only for lighting, but also to perform such services as cooking, auxiliary heating and supplying power to numerous labor-saving devices.

Some four years ago, extensive investigations were made of the home building activities to determine to what extent homes were being wired to utilize the cheap hydro-electric power and the many ingenious electrical appliances which the electrical industry had made available to every home owner.

It was found that there was a missing link between the efforts of the electrical industry, namely, that of providing cheap hydro-electric power and the actual using of this force in the home.

This missing link, which the electrical industry called proper nome wiring, had not been given serious consideration either by the home owner or the building contractors.

The investigations showed that people were actually being cheated out of the use of their various labor-saving devices through inadequate wiring which did not provide a sufficient number of convenience outlets in each room.

To overcome this condition, a group of electrical men representing the entire electrical industry, under the name of the California Electrical Co-operative Campaign, took it upon themselves to bring before the building interests and the building public the numerous advantages and conveniences afforded by homes wired with sufficient convenience outlets.

An intensive campaign, starting over four years ago, included the building of several properly wired homes, which were thrown open to the public, the architects, home builders and contractors, as an example of modern house wiring.

The results of this campaign have been overwhelming.

Today, an investigation of the new homes being built will show a very different picture than that of four years ago.

You will find today, electric wiring on a much more extensive basis, with convenience outlets to provide luxury and reduce drudgery, and you will also find in the more modern homes that special attention is being paid to the installation of electric wiring for cooking by electrical heat.

NEW HIGH PLANT PLACES EAGLE GLEN IN SUN

Heads of Families Are Turning to Subdivision for Future Homes

Southern California's reputation in the matter of educational facilities is exemplified in the progressive attitude of Glendale authorities towards this civic need, according to H. V. Henry, local manager of the J. Harvey McCarthy company foothill subdivision, Eagle Glen Heights. Mr. Henry cites the building of the new $600,000 high school on East Broadway as an illustration of the foresight which characterizes Glendale's public policy and without which this community could never have achieved even a small measure of its present prosperity.

Many tourists and other visitors to Eagle Glen Heights, which is only a short distance from the new high school building, have commentted on the liberal educational policy of the city authorities. To those who come from other states particularly, Mr. Henry declares, the fact that a community of the size of Glendale has such splendid school facilities is amazing. In the east, they say, even the largest cities have inadequate housing accommodations for school purposes.

"We have always understood that California led the way in school matters," one of them said to Mr. Henry, "but we never expected to find such magnificent buildings as we have seen in Southern California."

Announcement that construction work on the new high school has been started will undoubtedly attract a considerable population to this city, contends Mr. Henry, who points out that already a number of inquiries have been made by heads of families with children of school age, regarding homesites in the vicinity of the high school. Mothers particularly, are very anxious to live as near as possible to the schools their children attend. All the worry occasioned by the long journey of the children to and from the schools, would be eliminated with the knowledge that their schools were close by. Other very advantageous features for the mother in living near the school are that her children could come home at the noon hour recess, and that there would be considerable economy of time for her since she would not have to get her children ready for school so early as when they had a considerable distance to go.

"The proximity of Eagle Glen Heights not only to the new high school, but to the Broadway grammar school as well," said Mr. Henry, "has proved a very stimulating influence on the sale of lots here. Building operations at Eagle Glen Heights have been accelerated as a result of the beginning of construction work on the new school. Plans for a considerable number of new homes have been prepared and by the time the high school is completed I expect the tract to be a completely built-up residential community."

DEXTER BOARD CO. MEETS WITH SUCCESS

The Dexter Ironing Board Company, Waltir H. Alkire, proprietor, with offices at 124 Geneva street, Glendale; 6750 Hollywood boulevard, Hollywood, and 1115 Thirteenth avenue, Oakland, is a firm whose business during the past year has experienced a wonderful growth.

From an output and sale of ironing boards in Glendale of a few boards a day about a year ago, this firm is distributing boards throughout this section at the present time at a rate of 300 every day.

The boards that are being distributed by this firm, throughout the comparatively short period of sale, have grown wonderfully in popularity.

HERE IS BEST WAY TO USE SEED CATALOG

The most exciting moment in fireside gardening is the arrival of the new seed catalogues and a hasty glance at the new plants in the vegetable and flower world which are offered. We are in the period of scientific development of the hybridizer's art, and growers in the United States are no longer depending entirely upon Europe for their novelties.

The modern seed catalogue has developed into a reference work. They have been so improved that the description of their wares are accurate, cultural directions are exact, and they are filled with valuable information as well as price lists. Many a valuable gardening hint may be secured by careful study of the seed or plant catalogue.

In ordering seeds it is best not to depend too much on novelties. Try a few each year, but place your main dependence on reliable and well-tried varieties.

Planting dates and cultural methods necessarily vary with the latitude in our great country. A catalogue may be published in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago or San Francisco, and circulated in every state in the Union, but it would be quite impossible for explicit directions to be given as to the planting dates and cultural methods for every state in which it was circulated. It is usual, therefore, for the instructions in the catalogue to be given in somewhat general terms, and where dates are used they apply to the latitude in which the city or publication is located, and are subject to correction elsewhere. The gardener will soon learn how to do this, and will always supplement the catalogue instructions by information from local gardeners and the results of his own experience.

To some extent variations in climate affects the character of many varieties of vegetables.

GLENDALE CREST MAKES HIT WITH INVESTORS

J. R. Millar Realty Co. Finds Enthusiastic Reception

Much interest was created last Sunday by the opening of Glendale Crest, a new foothill subdivision in Glendale. According to J. D. Millar, of the J. D. Millar Realty Company, owners and subdividers of the property, many enthusiastic people visited the tract.

"We heard dozens of different remarks about the wonderful view and ideal location of Glendale Crest," said Mr. Millar. "Many coming from people who afterwards purchased homesites.

"Four different real estate men from Glendale were among the first purchasers. One man bought two lots on a high knoll, where he said the view was the finest he had ever been able to find in close-in property in Southern California.

"Another buyer who will start the erection of a nine-room foothill home in a short time is Mr. A. PJ Bartlett, local weather forecaster of Glendale, whose wife is president of the Ebell Society.

"We were more than pleased with the way the public received our latest subdivision, and predict that it will be sold out in a few weeks.

"Beeing only one-half block from Verdugo boulevard and facing on Sycamore drive, which is to be developed into one of the finest boulevards in Southern California we have wonderful approaches to our property.

"The car line is but two short blocks away and the new high school but three.

"Our tract office, at the corner of Sycamore drive and Verdugo road, will be kept open every day to receive visitors to this new addition."

ED. RADKE BUILDS FINE HOME ON HOWARD

Ed M. Radke, jeweler of South Brand boulevard, is erecting what will be one of the most attractive six-room homes in Glendale, at 720 North Howard street. This dwelling will be constructed on the English type of architecture. It will have hardwood floors throughout, large basement with electrically - controlled heating plant. Arrangements for a sun porch at the rear of the home have been made by Mrs. Radke.

This home is being constructed facing Verdugo canyon and affords an unusually good view of that beautiful section. Nothing is being left undone that would help to make this home charming in the extreme. It is being constructed by W. W. Wolcott, builder, of 320 West Pioneer drive.

Mr. Radke has been in business in Glendale for one year, having come to this city from San Francisco. For 40 years he conducted a wholesale jewelry business in the northern city.

Since landing here he has become a member of a number of civic and social organizations. He is a Glendale booster in the truest sense of the word and is ever on the lookout for anything that will advance the interests of this city.

WHY NOT PUT IN ALL SUMMER FLOWERS

Succession of bloom in the flower garden is a most important factor in garden planning. Study the annuals carefully before ordering seed and in laying out your garden to discover which come into bloom first, and which are late bloomers.

Phlox Drummondi and poppies come into bloom within a few weeks after planting. Asters we also know cannot be counted on for a display until the last of the summer. Snapdragons also require a long growing season before they give their best display. Marigolds start blooming when small, especially the French varieties.

It would not be advisable to plant a garden with varieties all of which need three months or more to produce their best display. It also would be equally inadvisable to plant all early flowering sorts, which would bloom a few weeks after planting, and then go to seed. It is a simple matter to study out a collection of annuals which will give blooms practically the whole summer from early June until killing frost.

The annual pinks give fairly early bloom and are lasting. Verbenas, if started early, may be depended on for a long display. Pansies, if started early, will brighten the last of May. Calendulas are reliable all-summer bloomers, especially if given a flying start.

Salvias reach the height of their brilliant scarlet towards the end of summer, but give fine bloom by July from early sown seed.

The flowering tobaccos, Nicotiana, are stately plants for the back of the border, and give a long display. The majestic castor bean, finest of the tropical foliaged annuals, which make a growth of ten feet in a season, ought to be started in pots in the house, or a hotbed to get them up in the air by July.

Nasturtiums, both the dwarf and the climbing sorts, start into bloom by the last of June if sown by May 1.

THE TEMPLE MOUNT

of Nebuchadnezzar, located in Babylon, was a leviathan in the matter of temple building. A luxuriance of rich tropical verdure rose terrace after terrace and crowned the roof, thus forming a marvelous roof garden, the famed "Hanging Gardens" of Babylon.

Roscoe--

the Second Petaluma

Petaluma has grown to be a large, solid, substantial city, wonderfully prosperous, just because it is specially adapted for chicken raising. And Roscoe, the new payroll town on San Fernando Road, is rapidly becoming a second Petaluma. Its climatic and soil conditions are ideal for poultry—its location could hardly be better. Just as surely as night follows day, Roscoe will become the Petaluma of Southern California—a large, solid, substantial, prosperous city.

Already, a strong company manufacturing incubators and other poultry equipment has opened two factories at Roscoe—and are swamped with orders. Other kindred factories will come to Roscoe—as they came to Petaluma.

Property in Roscoe, as it did in Petaluma, will go up and up and up—will double in value and double again.

Why not invest there now? You have every reason to expect great profits—no chance of loss. Think of business lots, right on the great San Fernando Road, for only $1000; residence lots, $500; acre lots, $850. Easy terms and assistance to build.

Drive out San Fernando Road 4½ miles beyond Burbank and see our Roscoe manager, Mr. Amunds. Or call up and have us take you out.

"Heart of the Verdugos"

Through the Conception of an Ideal and the broad scope of a comprehensive plan for its development, this magnificent tract of 1500 acres has become A RECOGNIZED INSTITUTION.

GRASP THE IDEA OF ITS BIGNESS

Over two and one-half square miles in area, it comprises long gradual slopes, elevated mesas, rolling hills, secluded canyons, rugged promontories, picturesque hillsides and oak groves—all of which will be covered with beautiful homes. Millions will be spent in the installation of all the improvements that will contribute to the health, happiness, comfort and pleasure of a community of 40,000, while an artistically planned segregated business district will fully meet every domestic and economic need.

HERE IS BUILDING A CITY under the supervision of a board of architectural experts. Nearer to Fifth and Broadway than the heart of Hollywood, with a finer car service, a Country Club, with mammoth swimming pool and 18-hole Golf Course; a Community Center Bldg. and Greek Theatre, will all add to the joy of living.

SPARR HEIGHTS GLORIES IN OLD OAKS

Trees That Took Generations to Grow Are on Great Tract

One of the old-time glories of Southern California was the wonderful groves of live oaks that were indigenous to this section and that flourished in great profusion all over the Southland and up the coast as far as Paso Robles. No more beautiful, dignified or ornamental tree exists and it seems a crime that so many of them were sacrificed for the utilitarian purpose of furnishing heat to the early settlers.

The usual prodigality in the expenditure of the resources of a virgin country was exhibited here by the first inhabitants. We realize now the added value the presence of an oak tree gives to any piece of land on which a man established his home, and sigh for the time when every home could have in its front yard a handsome oak under which the children might play and in whose broad shade the family could gather for their mutual pleasures.

"Speaking of oaks," said Mr. Barnum of the Francis-Barnum-Walters company, the owners and developers of Sparr Heights, on the Verdugo road, Glendale, "we consider that one of the chief assets of this tract is the numerous live oak trees that exist, isolated or in groups all over it. We have numerous fine specimens that many a man would pay a thousand or more dollars for it if it could be established in all its beauty on his home place, for it takes a generation to produce them.

"On the rolling hills of Sparr Heights, in the canyons and bordering on the Verdugo road are clusters of these fine trees whose spreading tops interlacing overhead make quiet and cool retreats, even in the midst of the hottest midday.

"While we are clearing out the underbrush, we are taking the greatest care to preserve them for the man who can build his home where one or more of these handsome trees are part of his individual landscaping effect and will be an ornament that he will always be proud of. He can lie within its shade, in the soft climate of this beautiful Verdugo valley, and watch the wonderful effects, never twice the same, that play along the mighty Sierra Madres and the beautiful 'Green Verdugo Hills,' and ever be thankful that his lines are cast in 'such pleasant places.'"

Tinkering with Baseball Rules

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—No mounted umpires will be riding around the gardens in the major league baseball parks next season. The possibility of putting the arbiters on steeds hadn't been disclosed until some one advanced the question as to how the umpires could rule on a hit under Ban Johnson's zone system for home runs.

Ban's new ideas about the elimination of the freak home run have been passed up, according to Commissioner Landis, and since they are dead numbers it is not necessary to get out the charts and blue prints and explain how Ban wanted to make a home run what it was when it wasn't.

Briefly, it was a proposal to paint lines or zones around the parks. Balls hit between the closest lines would be doubles, etc.

The more that radical proposals are made to change the baseball rules, the more it becomes evident that no changes are needed.

As long as the magnates are building parks with home run fields, it is not consistent to adopt rules to make the clouts harder.

After all, as Commissioner Landis says, it is apparent from the attendance figures that the fans like home runs. The club owners don't care anything about home runs or baseball. They are selling something for profit and if the customers would pay to see Uncle Tom's Cabin every day the mags would buy the hounds and ice.

* * * * * *

During the winter meetings, when all kinds of amendments for the present code and new clauses were being discussed, "Cap" Huston, the popular owner of the New York Yankees and one of the best examples in baseball of what most club owners are not, remarked:

"I don't believe in passing any rules that no one intends to observe."

He was talking about raising the player limit to twenty-five.

"What's the use to have any player limit?" he asked. "They all cheat and you got to cheat back if you don't want to get left behind. If we could put a hundred players under option, some of them would sneak in an extra five. If this business has to be cut-throat, it ought to be free for all, with everything wild and then no one could howl."

Keep Still, If You Can't Say Nice Things!

NEW YORK, Feb. ?.—Ethics of practically all amateur and professional sports make it bad form to talke about or criticise an opponent. It wasn't always the case, but it is the rule now.

Even among the boxers, where the lowest type can be found, the unwritten law is to keep still if you can't say something nice.

One of the little traits very becoming in Jack Dempsey is the magnanimous way in which he always refers to other boxers. He boosts everything and everyone and it never has cost him a friend.

Benny Leonard, a good representative of the higher type in the ring, does a lot of talking about his opponents, but Benny does it to stir up interest in his business.

* * * * * *

Baseball players are the most careful of all the professional athletes in refraining from conversation about other players.

None of them think very much of Babe Ruth, but you never could get them to say it.

During the last world's series several prominent players were given lucrative offers by a press association to write an expert analysis of each game, telling how it was won and lost. They all refused on the grounds that it would require them to comment on the work of other players and it was against their "principles."

* * * * * *

College and university men should be expected to have "better sense" than to talk about each other and those in track and field athletics are for the most part gentlemanly, even if they do remark occasionally about the speed that California air puts in a sprinter.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

By E. R. WAITE,
Secretary Shawnee, Oklahoma, Board of Commerce

THAT your city's business is the largest business in your section.

THAT cities must be managed and directed just as any successful business is managed.

THAT the city that will attract new industries and population is the city that makes itself a convenient city in which to do business.

THAT the city that is awake to its advantages and resources is the city that makes itself an attractive place in which to live and make a living.

THAT a city with poor schools, tumbled-down-looks and filled with "lack-of-ambition-citizens" gets nowhere.

THAT cities whose leading citizens are troubled with brain fatigue when it comes to helping their city, are often known as cities that are growing backward.

THAT a city must keep up-to-date. It must have good houses, well-paved streets, parks, opportunities for recreation, hospitals, playgrounds and it should present a pleasing appearance.

Article No. 20

Informatory Double

Procedure of Doubler's Partner

When a player doubles an original suit bid or No Trump, the obligation of his partner to take out the double, that is, to make a bid, is absolute. There are only two exceptions: first, when there has been an intervening bid; and second when the partner of the doubler has a hand strong enough to defeat the bid which has been doubled.

When there has been no intervening bid and partner's hand is not strong enough to defeat the bid, his obligation to make a bid is absolute. The entire convention is based on this obligation, and weakness of suit or hand never justifies partner in leaving in an informatory double. There are a number of well defined courses for partner of the doubler to follow. Partner is expected to take out the double with a major suit, if possible, preferring such bid either to a No Trump or a stronger or longer minor suit. Note, however, that the major suit, to justify a bid, must be one of at least four cards.

In the following hands, illustrative of partner's procedure, assume a Club bid by dealer, a double by second hand and no intervening bid by third hand:

Hearts — 10, 8
Clubs — 7, 2
Diamonds — K, Q, 7, 4, 2
Spades — J, 9, 7, 6

With the foregoing hand, the partner of the doubler should bid one Spade, preferring this suit to the stronger and longer minor suit.

Hearts — 7, 6, 2
Clubs — 10, 7, 2
Diamonds — K, Q, 7, 6
Spades — J, 9, 7

With the foregoing hand, partner of the doubler must bid one Diamond. Never bid a three card major suit in answer to a double. There is no exception to this rule.

Hearts — 10, 8, 7, 6
Clubs — K, 7, 6
Diamonds — K, Q, 4, 2
Spades — 7, 6

With the foregoing hand, partner of the doubler should bid one Heart, preferring this bid to a No Trump. It is very dangerous to bid a No Trump with only one stopper in the suit. With this type of hand, the major suit offers a much better chance for game.

Hearts — 10, 7, 6
Clubs — K, J, 7, 6
Diamonds — K, Q, 7, 4
Spades — 10, 7

With the foregoing hand, partner should bid one No Trump, having a double stopper in the Club suit.

Hearts — K, Q, 4, 2
Clubs — 10, 7
Diamonds — J, 10, 2
Spades — 9, 7, 6, 4

With the foregoing hand, partner should bid one Spade, preferring the Spade to the Heart bid, although the latter suit is the stronger. In case both major suits are four card suits, the convention is now being followed of bidding the Spade suit in preference to the Heart suit, even though the latter is considerably stronger. This is the so-called "Spade Convention" and will be taken up more in detail in a later article.

Hearts — 10, 7, 2
Clubs — 7, 4, 3
Diamonds — 5, 4, 3, 2
Spades — 9, 8, 5

With the foregoing hand, partner of the doubler must bid one Diamond. Weakness of suit or hand never justifies partner in leaving in an informatory double. The obligation to take out the double, that is, make a bid, is absolute and always must be followed.

The same rules just specified for a player to follow when his partner makes an informatory double of a suit bid, apply equally well to an informatory double of a No Trump.

In case there has been an intervening bid, partner no longer is obliged to bid, but if he does, he should have at least as good as a defensive bid, that is, at least one and one-half quick tricks. In the following hand, assume dealer to have bid one Club, second hand to have doubled and third hand to have bid one Spade:

Hearts — Q, J, 7, 4, 2
Clubs — 7, 6
Diamonds — A, 4, 3, 2
Spades — J, 7

With the foregoing hand, partner of the doubler should bid two Hearts.

Occasionally partner of the doubler has a hand that is so strong that he prefers to pass and try to defeat the bid. In the following hand, assume a bid of one No Trump by dealer, a double by second hand, no intervening bid, and fourth hand with the following:

Hearts — K, Q, 7
Clubs — J, 10, 4, 2
Diamonds — A, 7, 6, 4
Spades — Q, 7

He should pass. With such a hand he should defeat the No Trump bid at least 200 points.

THE GUAVA MAKES WELCOME HOME SHRUB

The guava is a fruiting shrub or small tree, quite commonly known in the gardens of California, although of less frequent occurence than many of our standard fruits.

It belongs to the myrtaceous group of plants, which also includes many of the spices, other fruiting species, the eucalyptus and the true myrtles.

The strawberry guava, Psidium cattleianum, is the most common in California, occuring in two types, one of which bears red, the other yellow, fruits.

This plant can be grown anywhere that the orange thrives and succeeds in a wide variety of soils.

A rich, sandy loam seems to be its choice, but it will grow well in clay or adobe.

It has withstood temperature of ten degrees below the freezing point.

The strawberry guava is ordinarily a bushy shrub, sometimes attaining the proportions of a small tree.

The leaves are thick and leathery, glossy and a rich green in color.

The bark is smooth and grayish brown, sometimes resembling the bark of our native manzanitas, and quite striking.

The flowers are white and almost an inch across.

The fruits of this shrub are fleshy pomes, up to an inch or more in diameter, with a few small and very hard seeds imbedded in the flesh.

They are used chiefly for jelly-making, but have a pleasing flavor that makes them popular for use as a fresh fruit.

This shrub has ornamental value that makes it desirable in almost any garden, particularly in view of the fact that it is very hardy and that it will bear fruit even under considerable neglect.

It should be treated, generally, as a shrub, although old specimens may attain as much as twenty-five feet in height with a decidedly arborescent appearance.

It requires little pruning and is excellent for use where an untrimmed hedge is desired.

Psidium guajava, sometimes known as the lemon guava, or the pear guava, also grows in the warmer parts of Southern California, although mature plants have been injured by temperatures of 28 or 29 degrees.

The plant is very hardy in other ways, being quite indifferent to the soil in which it grows, resistent to heat if well irrigated and quite resistent to drought.

This form of guava is more tropical in its character than the preceding, has larger, coarser leaves and larger fruits which grow from one to four inches in length.

It is an arborescent shrub or small tree to thirty feet in height with a slender trunk and a brown-green bark.

The flowers are white, about an inch across, and are followed by yellow fruits with a yellow or red-ish pulp.

The fruit of this species is used for a jam, guava cheese and as a fresh fruit.

It has a decidedly musky odor, offensive to some, which makes its use less popular in this country.

As an ornamental shrub or small tree this guava is a handsome type that may be grown in our warmer localities, such as Hollywood, Orange and certain of the foothill sections.

Where the temperature is favorable its sturdy character and easy fruiting tendencies should make it a favorite in gardens where it is desired to combine the beauty of landscape with utility.

STUNTS ARRANGED FOR VISITORS AT CAHUENGA PARK SUNDAY

Parachute Jumper Will Stand on Wing While Airplane Does Double Loop

Above, left, little Miss Dorothy Bundy presents basket of roses to Miss Bessie Love, film star, at Cahuenga Park, Sunday, February 11; Milton Sills, on right. Right, Miss Gladys Roy, 17-year-old world's record woman parachute jumper and airplane "wing walker." Below, Thomas E. Merrill (center), who was given Victrola at Cahuenga Park, standing, with Miss Bessie Love, left, and C. C. Albright, right.

Milton Sills Buys 10-Acre Site and Will Build Beautiful Home

Hair raising stunts on the wings of a fast moving airplane and a thrilling parachute drop are included among the treats in store for visitors to "Cahuenga Park" tomorrow.

Miss Gladys Roy, who is undoubtedly the most daring girl parachute jumper and aerial performer in the world, will fly in a speeding plane, hang by her knees from the landing gear, walk about on the top wing, stand on the wing while the machine does a double loop, hang by her toes from the strut and do other breath-taking stunts.

Miss Roy holds the world's record for low parachute jumping and the world's record for high jumping for women. She is a delightfully winsome and charming girl and is as pretty as a flower.

WITHOUT FEAR

Although only 17 years old, Miss Roy is said to have stronger nerves than many aviators with years of experience. Referring to the dangers of parachute jumping, she said:

"Why, I figure I run more chances of being killed in the street by an automobile than when flying or dropping in a 'chute.'"

Miss Roy is a strong booster for Southern California because she says she can fly and enjoy outdoor sports here all the year around. She excels in swimming, boxing and tennis as well as in aerial acrobatics.

The sales at "Cahuenga Park" to date have exceeded all expectations, according to Thomas C. Bundy of Bundy & Albright, subdividers.

"Nearly all the small farms in the first unit have been sold and only a small amount of townsite and business property is left. The character of the subdivision is such, however, that the remaining lots are just as desirable from every standpoint as the ones which are sold. A number of buildings have just been completed at 'Cahuenga Park' and several more are under construction."

PLANS FOR SCENIC DRIVE

Plans for the new Mulholland scenic drive and the extension of the Pacific Electric railway are said to be progressing satisfactorily and the work of installing improvements is going forward at a rapid pace.

A record breaking crowd visited "Cahuenga Park" as the guests of Milton Sills and Miss Bessie Love, the well known screen stars. Mr. Sills, in an address to the crowd, declared that, in spite of the fact that he always refused to work on Sundays for the motion picture producers, yet, because of his confidence in "Cahuenga Park's" future, he was glad to speak on Sunday for Bundy & Albright.

Mr. Sills bought a 10-acre home-site in the foothills of "Cahuenga Park." He said he intends to plant firs, palms and other trees on his property immediately, then put a beautiful home there in the near future.

GEOGRAPHICAL CENTER

He prophesied that the future of "Cahuenga Park" would be very brilliant as it is the geographical center of the city of Los Angeles and is located at the logical place for a community on the great Ventura state highway.

"It would be impossible to find a more beautiful place for a home," Mr. Sills declared and he predicted immense profits for those who buy for investment.

Miss Love was full of enthusiasm and pep. She charmed the crowd with her personality and directed the band in a very competent manner. She also purchased property in "Cahuenga Park."

The Hollywood American Legion band will help entertain the crowd again tomorrow.

To reach "Cahuenga Park" drive out Ventura boulevard to the tract office at Sherman way.

Arctotis	June to frost (Tr.)
Balsam	June to September
Cosmos	July to frost (Tr.)
Celosia (coxcomb)	June to September
Calliopsis	July to September
Centaurea (bachelor's button)	May to September
Chrysanthemum, annual	August to October
Canary bird vine	June to frost

Continuous bloom in all cases is dependent upon keeping the fading flowers picked and seed pods from forming. This is particularly true of such annuals as larkspurs and annual poppies, whose blooming season is brief if seeds are allowed to mature. Some annuals have a short season of bloom, to be renewed by successive sowing, such as the brilliant edging annual, Virginia stock.

UNITED STATES EXPORTS

in 1911 were valued at about $2,000,000,000; in 1920, at about $8,000,000,000. In 1913 the imports were about 75 percent of the exports; in 1919 about 40 percent of the exports.

POINTED POINTERS FOR POULTRY PRODUCERS

Los Angeles, the metropolis of the Pacific Coast, is the only big center in any part of the country without its chicken show.

Chicago, New York, Boston, Syracuse, Toronto, Kansas City, Sacramento, Oregon and Washington states and a dozen other cities of other parts of the country—all conduct poultry shows during the fall and winter season, but Los Angeles, in the middle of one of the largest poultry raising sections in the country, has been without its exhibition for several seasons, and there does not seem to be any prospect for having one of the near future. Last fall it seemed as though there were a number of real "chicken fanciers" in this neighborhood, but I suppose they were mostly false alarms and expected that if they put a few dollars into the exhibition end of the game, they expected to take out double what they put in.

And that is simple enough, if you go the right way about it.

However, let us hope that in the near future some real sportsmen will take hold of the proposition and build up a poultry organization such as they have in other communities.

At this time each year and until late in the winter many new arrivals settle in Los Angeles.

Many of them determine to take advantage of our wonderful climate and find something to keep them out of doors a good part of the day, and the one thing considered first is chickens.

Now, most of these folks know very little about chickens and those coming from the big eastern cities know nothing whatever about them, so from now on there will be many inquiries about which kind is the best to select and why should some be better than others, etc.

Breeds of chickens are grouped and known as American, Mediterranean, Asiatic, English, Polish, French and Belgian.

The American breeds consist of several varieties, the leading ones being the Wyandottes, the whites being the most popular.

Altogether there are eight varieties of Wyandottes.

The Plymouth Rock family probably is more numerous in the country as a whole than any one other breed, although here on the coast the Leghorns are far in the lead.

There are the Barred and White Rocks, then the Rhode Island Reds and Rhode Island Whites.

While the Orpingtons, white, black and buffs, are English, they usually are classed with the Americans, because they are practically built along the same lines.

The Mediterraneans are the Leghorn family, the whites first and buffs next; "Andalusians" commonly known as "Blue Andalusians," although there are three colors, blue, black and a slaty white.

Minorcas, black and white, Anconas being black with white spots.

The Asiatics are light Brahmas and Cochins, the Brahmas being the only variety in favor with the public.

The Belgian has but one variety that is known at all here, called the Campine, being a small fowl, but a good layer.

Of the two breeds of French fowl well known here only one is being bred in limited numbers. It is called the "Houdan."

The American, English and Asiatic all lay brown shelled eggs.

GROWTH OF ROSCOE EXPLAINED HERE

These are bumper days at Roscoe, the town that is springing up on the San Fernando road between Burbank and San Fernando.

It is doubtful if in the history of the San FFernando valley the opening of any town has been met with such wonderful success as has the introduction of Roscoe.

It has been only a few months since the opening gun of this town was fired. Since that time a little community has grown up there with leaps and bounds. It has naturally jumped ahead. Nothing seems to be able to hold it back.

As all this progress is noted, the question naturally comes up: "Why?"

To this there are several replies that can be made.

In the first place, it is the location of Roscoe that is resulting in the wonderful growth of the town. It is situated almost midway between Burbank and San Fernando, while it is practically the same distance from Lankershim.

Then comes the soil. It is the best soil in the world for poultry raising, and is ideal for garden purposes.

Also its railway facilities. It is right on the main line of the Southern Pacific railroad. The town, also, is on the coast Los Angeles to San Francisco highway and also on the road from the La Crescenta valley to the beaches.

In every way this town is ideally located, and has everything that is necessary for the making of a wonderful little city.

WONDERFUL VIEW FROM EASTSIDE TRACT

One of the most wonderful views obtained from any tract in this valley is that secured from the Eagle Glen Heights tract, which is located at the extreme east end of Broadway. This is one of the reasons why this tract has become so popular among the homesite buyers of this section.

This is one tract in which the values have increased since its opening. From the moment of the opening sale there has been a steady upward trend in the values and the prices asked. Many who invested in this tract at its opening have resold at substantial increases, all of which goes to show that when it comes to real value, this tract has it.

This tract is owned by the J. H. McCarthy Company of Los Angeles.

Captain's Brilliant Exploit Is Recalled by Schooner Rescue

Captain Paul Kreibohm of President Arthur.

The recent rescue of the crew of the disabled schooner, Rosa Ferlita, and the towing of the craft to New York by the President Garfield of the United States Lines under weather conditions that made the work extremely difficult, recalls the saving of 89 persons from the British steamship Volturno in 1913 by Captain Paul H. Kreibohm, skipper of the President Arthur, then master of the Kroonland.

Captain Kreibohm, who is one of the senior officers of the United States Lines fleet, in accomplishing the rescue of the passengers and crew of the Volturno, which was destroyed at sea by fire on October 9, 1913, will forever be remembered in shipping circles for the clever manner in which he handled the situation.

For his work he was at that time specially commended by Congress, which presented him with a $1,000 gold watch in a heavy case, the mold of which was destroyed. The King of Belgium decorated him a Knight of the Belgium Crown and honors were bestowed upon him by Great Britain.

The story of the rescue, as told in Captain Kreibohm's original report, will never grow old, is as follows:

"Word came to me by wireless from he "Carmania" that the British steamer "Volturno" was on fire and in grave danger. Within twenty minutes we had turned back and were on our way to the place of the disaster.

"We arrived at fifty-five minutes after five o'clock that evening. Three vessels were standing by at a distance of a mile and a half, I should say, from the "Volturno," and apparently doing nothing on account of the fearfully high seas. A gale was blowing, and the weather conditions were severe. I swept all around her, thinking that I might get a line on board of her, but this was absolutely impossible.

"We passed within fifty feet of the steamship in making the circuit, so close that we could clearly distinguish the faces of the passengers.

"I knew that something must be done, and that quickly, so I called for volunteers, and there was an immediate and hearty response. The first lifeboat to go was that in command of the Fifth Officer B. Kummel, with a crew of ten men, most of whom were sailors, the others firemen. They went at eight o'clock, and we never expected to see them again. They came back in an hour and a half, and had not saved anybody, as they could not induce them to jump from the "Volturno" into the boiling water.

"More men volunteered, and the same crew who had been out insisted on going back again. The other boat which went out shortly afterwards was in charge of Second Officer Fred Mansfield. They went to the burning ship and returned at one o'clock in the morning with thirteen persons, all men, because the women would not take the risk of jumping from the doomed vessel.

"On account of the dark night it was best to attempt no more. The search-light from one of the vessels which I took to be that of the "Grosser Kurfuerst," and which I am now informed was that of the "Carmania," played over the waters and did much to aid us in picking out the lifeboats. The boat crews were sent to rest, and at half past five the work of rescue was begun anew.

"We saved eighty-nine lives in all. The last to leave the "Volturno" was Captain Inch, her Master, carrying with him his dog, a Manchester terrier called "Jack." The eyes of Captain Inch was badly burned, and for several days he was barely able to see, even when using smoked glasses. The "Kroonland" was the first vessel to reach the side of the "Volturno," and her life boat was the last to leave her."

A master for about eighteen years, Captain Kreibohm is well known to trans-Atlantic travellers having been in command of various big passenger ships for a long time. He has been a captain with the United States Lines since the inauguration of the company.

When the United States entered the war, Captain Kreibohm volunteered his services to Secretary of War Baker and was made Marine Superintendent of the Army Transport Service. In this capacity he thoroughly inspected all troopships carrying American soldiers, and piloted them to their convoy rendevouz. He later was in command of the S.S. "Agamemnon."

DAUGHTER-IN-LAW OF COLORADO'S GOVERNOR IS DEVOTEE OF LATEST FAD IN THE ROCKIES

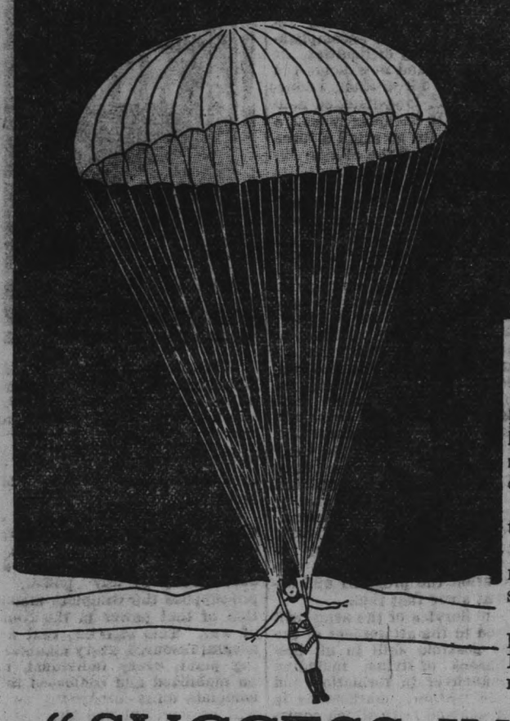
She Jumps from an Aeroplane with a Parachute



Come to "Cahuenga Park"

SPECIAL ATTRACTION

Fox Film News will take motion pictures of Miss Gladys Roy, the world's champion "Wing Walker," Aerial Gymnast and Parachute Jumper, at "Cahuenga Park" Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

These pictures will be shown in leading theaters throughout the world.

Miss Roy will do "wing walking" and aerial gymnastics, ending with a daring parachute jump from a swift-moving plane to the ground.

If you wish to see this remarkable exhibition first hand come to "Cahuenga Park" as our guest Sunday. Miss Roy will make a personal appearance to meet her many friends and admirers after the parachute drop.

"SUCCESS INSURES SAFETY"

"Cahuenga Park" is the first, the largest and the most successful of the many Ventura Boulevard subdivisions. As the pioneer, it secured the pivot location. Ventura Boulevard and Sherman Way are destined to become the Seventh and Broadway of the entire San Fernando Valley. As the pioneer it deserves the greatest benefit from the activity that is now sweeping through the whole district. As an investor you have an opportunity to profit by the foresight of the men back of this great project.

Weigh These Facts Carefully

An investment in "Cahuenga Park" is as safe as Liberty Bonds, and large profits are absolutely certain. It is safe because the actual intrinsic value of the land and what it will produce are behind it. Big Profits are sure because "Cahuenga Park" is already a success. Over a quarter of a million dollars in sales and a great building and development program have carried it past the experimental stage.

New Developments

Since the opening of "Cahuenga Park" a few months ago many important factors have developed. Chief among these is the fact that the Pacific Electric has secured a right-of-way and plans to run a car line along Ventura Blvd. past "Cahuenga Park." Another car line is proposed along Sherman Way and through "Cahuenga Park" to Beverly Hills. The beautiful new Mulholland Scenic Drive, which is the Southern Boundary of "Cahuenga Park," and the new boulevards to be built through "Cahuenga Park" and over the hills to Hollywood, Beverly and the Beach Cities, are also of prime importance.

Literally hundreds of the most conservative and best informed investors in California are putting their money in "Cahuenga Park." All we ask of you is an opportunity to show you why you should follow their example. Come out today.

Hollywood American Legion Band will play at "Cahuenga Park" Sunday.

NEW LAND OFFERED TO GLENDALE BUYERS

One of the latest tracts of land to be opened and offered to Glendale buyers is the Verdugo Highlands subdivision, one of the most wonderful pieces of property in this section of the country.

Verdugo Highlands is situated on Verdugo road close to the point where the highway connects with the Los Angeles-Eagle Rock car line, and one mile north of San Fernando road.

This land is gently rolling. Every lot in the tract has a wonderful view and throughout the entire summer every building site on the tract is swept by the gentle breezes from the Pacific. It is located in a piece of country that has, up to this time, been almost entirely overlooked by the real estate companies that are operating in Glendale and Los Angeles. This was not on account of any undesirability of the property, for it is one of the choicest sections to be found anywhere in Southern California. It was just overlooked, that's all.

Every lot in this tract is a jewel. It is ideal for home building purposes. The pre-opening sale of these lots will start next Sunday. The tract has been entirely platted and the lots have been priced. Those who get in on the ground floor of this tract will be the ones to reap the benefits of the price raises that are sure to follow the beginning of the building campaign that is planned for this subdivision.

The biggest feature about this tract is that it has a 5-cent car fare to Los Angeles, and is 20 minutes from First and Broadway. It is close to the proposed extension of York boulevard into Glendale, which, when finished, will doubtless result in raise in value of the property.

A deed is given to the property purchased upon the first payment of 20 per cent of the price paid. The company handling this tract will finance the homes of those buying and will build these structures.

To reach this property go south on Verdugo road to York boulevard and the tract, or go south on San Fernando road to Verdugo road, then turn left for one mile to tract office.

This subdivision is being put on by the Cleveland-Blair-Ruggles company, 206 South Spring street, Los Angeles.

SUCCESSION CROPS ARE POSSIBLE IN TWO WAYS

In making up a vegetable seed list, remember there are two ways of producing a succession of crops. One is by successive plantings of your favorite variety. Another is by planting at the same time varieties which will mature successively. In general, successive plantings are preferred where space is limited, and so the quickest growing varieties will produce greatest results. But if one has plenty of space, then a combination of the two systems is ideal, as it permits each vegetable to be treated in the way most suitable for it.

The earliest variety of sweet corn matures in about 55 days, while the latest takes 90 days. A succession may thus be sown May 1 which will produce a harvest from mid-June until mid-August. But those who consider Golden Bantam as the finest home garden variety will prefer to sow it every two weeks, and thus produce the succession of crops.

Peas take 45 days (for the smooth seeded Alaska) to 75 days to mature; and the tall growing types, which bear most heavily and are excellent in flavor, are later than the dwarf. So planting of different varieties for succession in crop promises a heavier yield and no sacrifice in quality.

Radishes may be grown either way, and one should be guided by taste, as many do not care for the long types which stand the summer heat, but prefer many sowings of the milder globe and olive sorts. For a lettuce succession, on the other hand, one must choose different varieties. Start with a leaf or loose heading variety, sown indoors at the earliest moment and harvested when half grown, using the plants which are thinned out; at the same time set out plants of a butter-head variety which has been started indoors and will mature heads before hot weather begins. And for later harvest sow crisp head and cos lettuce.

When sowing in late summer for a fall harvest, do not sow late maturing varieties. The early varieties are used again for the fall crop. Late varieties are sown in the spring or early summer, as they take the season to reach maturity.

These suggestions are given to help one in selecting a planting list. The more complete information about the different varieties which is given in seed catalogues should be studied in the light of these suggestions, which are necessarily incomplete.

AMERICAN TONNAGE

of ocean steamers amounts to 15,418,000 gross. England has a gross tonnage of 21,589,000. Before the war the American merchant marine tonnage was only 5,141,000, against England's 20,524,000. The United States has 5,884 vessels against England's 10,324. England and America are now the leading maritime countries. Germany now has a tonnage of 654,000, as compared with her 5,135,000 in 1914.

MILITARY AND COMMERCIAL FLYING

By HON. JOHN W. WEEKS
Secretary of War

The Air Service, together with other branches of the army, has been required to bear its share in the general reduction in the military strength of the country which has been effected since the World war. Notwithstanding this fact, the Air Service furnishes a notable example of efficiency and has recorded many excellent accomplishments under trying difficulties. It has established and now holds the world's records for altitude, endurance, speed and long-distance nonstop flights. It occupies indeed a proud position for so small a force and speaks well for the ability, enthusiasm, skill and endurance of its personnel.

Planes which can fly at a speed of four miles a minute, which can climb seven and a half miles in the air, which can stay in the air for a day and a half without landing, and which can cover a distance of more than two thousand miles in a single flight—the records of our Air Service—indicate the present trend of aeronautical development and direct especial attention to the possibilities in the use of planes in time of war. Furthermore, such records of performance constitute important factors in the successful execution of strategical and tactical movements. Aviation must henceforth be given a prominent place in the successful conduct of war. The experiences and performances of aircraft during the World war furnish ample testimony in substantiation without taking into consideration the progress and development since that time.

The Air Service of the army will be trained in the attainment of the greatest possible skill in all possible phases of flying, including quick maneuver in formation and aerial navigation; marksmanship with all weapons with which equipped; strategical and tactical observation and reconnaissance; attack of objectives in the air, on the ground, and on the water; co-operations with other branches and with the navy; maintenance of communications; and use of its auxiliary equipment.

The Air Service will act as auxiliary to all ground troops. It will aid the infantry, add to the destructive power of artillery, and furnish a means for gathering information of inestimable value to the Commander-in-chief and for distributing his orders to his command. Any arm which can accomplish such results is of major importance in the military organization. When, in addition, this arm can strike decisive blows of its own, it becomes of still greater value and it is a fact that a well-organized and well-equipped air force can greatly aid in defeating the enemy by attacking his ground troops, his concentration points, lines of communication, railroad centers, and his industrial establishments far behind the lines, which are employed in manufacturing supplies for his forces, provided always, that the air force is able to secure and maintain supremacy in the air.

Supremacy in the air is now considered essential in the successful conduct of a war of magnitude. Future wars, if they are to be waged successfully by any power, will pre-suppose the complete mobilization of that power in the conduct of war. This signifies that every natural resource, every manufacturing plant, every individual, must be mobilized and coalesced into a complete unit; otherwise success will be doubtful and the probable loss of the issues of the war almost a foregone conclusion.

There emerges, then, from an argument based on such a premise, a concrete fact that aviation cannot be used upon a grand scale as a military factor, unless an aeronautical industry is mobilized behind it, supporting it, making its work effective by enabling it to place in the field overwhelming aerial strength. Thus, we must have an aeronautical industry which can be counted upon with certainty in time of national emergency, or if another war is forced upon us. A nation-wide industry is impossible unless nation-wide use of commercial aviation comes into being. In order for such an extensive use of air navigation to be realized, we must immediately begin to investigate the various industries and commercial activities of our land which can best be served by aeronautics, and business men, as a result of inquiries into these matters, must exercise the courage of their convictions and utilize aircraft wherever possible.

It is not believed that a nation owing its importance in the affairs of the world to industrial development, can neglect further the employment of this new factor in transportation and communication. Indeed, it is believed that we are on the verge of an era in development in aerial transportation which will speed up business enterprises and pay enormous dividends in terms of service.

One thing remains to be done to call forth capital in support of commercial aviation and that is the enactment of stabilizing and encouraging laws to take aeronautics out of the "outlaw" class of industries, and place it firmly on its feet with adequate governmental recognition. It is meant by this that air navigation is so swift in its operation that no longer are there state boundaries; for if the speed of an airplane is substituted for the speed of the railways throughout our present surface network of transportation facilities, the map of the United States will be greatly diminished.

Consequently, air navigation is an interstate activity, and must be subject to laws governing interstate commerce. Those laws, however, must be suited to the new agency, while founded on the broad principle of commercial law. We must have regulations to foster rather than to hamper the development of this new art. Only by federal regulation can such conditions be brought about. Separate laws at the instance of forty-eight states would mean confusion. It is necessary, then, to obtain the assistance of congress in the form of legislation which will require the regulation of air navigation, to provide for the inspection of equipment, the licensing of pilots, the safe-guarding of passengers and the general public, and, further, to maintain the national prestige.

With such comprehensive legislation will come immediate acceleration in the growth of air navigation. The country will be benefited commercially thereby, and there will be the essential aircraft industry necessary for the national defense, in that, in a minimum of time the army and navy air services will be provided with the necessary aircraft for the expansion of the military and naval arms in time of national emergency. Not only may certain types of commercial aircraft be quickly changed over for military and naval use, but quantity production of proved types of aircraft may be started without delay.

In conclusion and recapitulation, the following facts stand out: Aviation has proved itself to be a vital factor in war; it has proved itself to be an important factor in commerce and industry; its development is dependent upon adequate laws.

GLENDALE FANS TO SEE WONDERS OF DOBLE STEAM CAR

DOBLE, WORLD'S MOST WONDERFUL STEAM CAR, WILL BE EXHIBITED BY THE PACKER AUTO COMPANY

February 12, 13, 14 and 15 Are the Days Set for the Introduction of This Car in Glendale; Expert Demonstrator Will Be on Hand

Automobile enthusiasts of Glendale are to be treated to a demonstration of the new 1923 Doble steam car, which will be on exhibition here, beginning Monday, February 12, for three or four days, at the Studebaker salesroom of the Packer Auto Co.

The new car will be put through its paces here by Abner Doble himself, inventor of the steamer, and president of the manufacturing company, who will show the method of operation, flexibility and ease of handling.

In less than 20 seconds after the ignition switch is turned on, it is declared by F. G. Cox, fiscal agent of the corporation, who was here yesterday preparing for the demonstration, there is a full head of steam in the boiler.

"Many automobiles have been instantaneous successes," said Mr. Cox, "but the enthusiastic public reception of the Doble Steam Motor car, built by the Doble Detroit Steam Motors company in 1917, has never been equalled in any instance.

"In 1917 the story of Abner Doble's revolutionary achievement began to appear in the most natural and spontaneous way. It was news in the best newspaper sense of the word. Newspapers, magazines and technical publications pictured Abner Doble and the Doble steam motor car.

"Then, just about automobile show-time, came the national advertising—not much of it—less than $10,000 worth all together, and yet it was so dominant that it carried home. With even a revolutionary accomplishment, the results were amazing. The Doble was the greatest sensation that the New York show ever experienced. The first show—the first advertisement—brought the results. Two and a half days later the postoffice refused to deliver the mail, and it became necessary to send cars for it. The number of letters received soon passed the 50,000 mark. Seven hundred telegrams arrived from dealers or from those wanting to buy stock in the company. The biggest dealers came direct to Detroit with bank references ready to do business.

"Orders for more than 11,000 cars were received in 90 days.

Then, when just eleven cars had been completed, the United States War Priority Board stopped manufacture for the period of the war because of the need for steel in vital war-time industries.

"Now, after five years spent solely in refining the sensational car of 1917, Abner Doble is again manufacturing the Doble Steam Motor Car.

"Today Doble Steam Motor Cars are again in production, being built by the Doble Steam Motors in San Francisco.

"Transportation has come to be a vitally important subject in our modern life and the opportunity to witness a demonstration of the hitherto-impossible feats which the Doble Steam Motor Car accomplishes with perfect ease is one which Glendale people will not want to miss.

GUARD AGAINST SKIDDING

Never jam brakes too quickly, especially on a hill, smooth or wet pavement or other place where the car is likely to slide or skid. This is not only a matter of safety, but also saves tires.

ROCK CAR GENTLY IF YOUR STARTER STICKS

When the gears of the electric starter become stuck, turn off the ignition switch, put in high gear and then gently rock the car backward and forward. This will release the starting gear from the flywheel gear and the starter will then turn the engine easily.

ASSEMBLED CAR RECORD IS MADE

"Shipping of assembled automobiles from main factories and assembling plants during the past year reached the record figure of approximately 400,000 machines," as reported by William E. Metzger, chairman traffic committee, National Automobile Chamber of Commerce to the directors meeting of that association recently. In addition to this, over 750,000 machines were driven away by dealers from factories and assembling plants.

CAUSE OF BROKEN SPRINGS

The principal causes of spring breakage are loose axle clips, incorrect heat treatment, fatigue of metal, tight shackle bolts, incorrect design, overloads, careless driving and lack of lubrication.

BE CAREFUL WHO YOU PICK UP, WARNS CLUB

Serious consequences such as the death of Mr. Leslie L. Nichols on a lonely desert highway near the Imperial Valley, are resulting throughout this part of the state from the mistaken philanthropy of motorists giving strangers free rides.

According to officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California, this practice has never been so dangerous as at the present time. Highways in the west during the winter months are infested with hard-boiled desperate characters, who make it a practice to beg rides from motorists with a deliberate intent of committing robbery, say the club officers. If necessary, those characters will not stop at murder.

A widespread campaign to discourage the giving of free rides to strangers is to be launched by the club this winter, in connection with its safety bureau work. Age is no indication of the desperate designs of these people an autoist is liable to pick up, it is pointed out. The two boys who it is alleged have confessed to the murder of Mr. Nichols on the desert road have given their ages as less than eighteen.

In the cases of school boys and girls who beg rides from the roadside, greater harm is done to them than to the motorist who grants their wish, as statistics prove that vagrancy and runaways are encouraged by such so-called kindly acts.

Don't give strangers free rides, urges the club, for, in addition to the ethics of the matter and the personal danger to the driver, there is a possibility of a serious damage suit if the passenger should be injured in an accident due to the negligence of the operator of the car.

Faulty Valve Action Is Cause of Tapping

Tapping of valve lifters is caused by faulty valve action and results in loss of power. This tapping indicates that the space is opening up but on the other hand this space must not close up or lack of compression will result, when the engine heats up. The clearance when the engine is cold should be about five-thousandths of an inch, or the thickness of two pieces of newspaper.

FAKE SOLICITORS FOR 'AUTO CLUB' ARE OUT

Scores of motorists are making complaint that they have been solicited to join an "automobile club" under the impression that they were affiliating with the Automobile Club of Southern California, when in reality they come to find out they have joined another and less important organization.

In order to protect the motoring public from advances so solicitors who secure members of other organizations under the impression that they are joining the large Southern California Club, this organization has just issued a warning to automobile owners to examine all receipts given by mysterious or casual solicitors.

In some instnces where motorists have questioned such receipts, saying, "This doesn't look like the Automobile Club of Southern California," the solicitor has said: "Well, we are all the same anyway as we all belong to the parent organization."

Officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California wish to be clearly understood that the organization is affiliated in no way with other clubs, although it does exchange all courtesies with certain other organizations which are known to be in good standing throughout the United States.

Do not join blindly any "automobile club" without knowing just exactly what club you are joining, is the terse warning just issued. This applies to garages, hotels and other similar business enterprises who are solicited for official membership.

FOREST RANGERS OF CALIFORNIA ON THE JOB IN EFFORT TO PROTECT BEAUTY OF MTS. FOR MOTORISTS

Many Forest Outlaws Are Killed During 1922; Game Law Violators Arrested; Other Steps Taken to Retain Attraction of the Hills

The hills are being protected for the motorist. Dangerous animals are being killed and other protective steps taken.

That 274 mountain lions, coyotes and bobcats were killed in the national forests of California last year; that 50 per cent of the forest fires are caused by careless smokers; that "light burning" is being discontinued, and that 38 game violators were arrested in 1922 are the points covered in a bulletin on the national forests of California, sent to the Glendale Daily Press from the forest service department of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The report in detail follows:

Tobacco smokers caused nearly 50% of the fires which occurred during 1922 in the Angeles National Forest in Southern California, according to statement made by the United States Forest Service.

Forest Rangers last year killed 274 mountain lions, coyotes and bobcats on the National Forests of California, reports the United States Forest Service. The destruction of these forest outlaws will save many deer and other game, as well as thousands of dollars' worth of live stock, all of which are preyed upon by these varmints. The Santa Barbara National Forest in Southern California heads the list with a kill of 105 coyotes, 53 wildcats and 41 mountain lions. The destruction of predatory animals is one of the many cooperative activities of the rangers in the interests of the users of the National Forests.

The "light burning" of California's timber lands, a subject over which there has been a great deal of controversy, has been proven by experiment to be a dangerous practice, destructive to the forest growth and much more costly than the ordinary methods of fire protection, according to report just made public by the California Forestry Committee. This committee, composed of representatives from the California White and Sugar Pine Manufacturers' Association, the Southern Pacific Railway company and the United States Forest Service, has been conducting a critical analysis of the effects of light burning on the forests of the state. In discontinuing the field experiments that have been carried on for the past three years, the committee reports that no fire protective system has been discovered or devised that seemed more practicable or economical than that now in effect in the National Forests.

Thirty-eight arrests in the National Forests for violations of the state game laws were made by officers of the United States Forest Service during 1922

$300,000 AND MONTHS OF TIME SPENT BY ILLINOIS TESTING OUT HIGHWAY MATERIALS

Eastern State Will Build 5000-Mile Road System, But Takes This Sensible Way of "Looking Before It Leaps"; Finds It Pays

The state of Illinois is engaged in the construction of an extensive system of state highways which will probably total around 5000 miles when completed. In order that the highway officials might have definite information concerning the behavior of various types of pavement under load, it was decided in 1920 that a series of full sized sections should be built and tested to destruction by actual truck traffic. The result of this determination was the construction of what is known as the Bates experimental road, which will represent an expenditure of more than $300,000 for scientific research.

Three types of pavements were selected for the test, namely, concrete, brick and asphalt. For each of the separate types, there are many subdivisions involving practically every design that has been extensively used or advocated for use in the United States.

Traffic tests were started on March 30, 1922. The traffic was carried on under conditions which were rigidly controlled. A fleet of 16 motor trucks was utilized, each was loaded so that front and rear wheel loads were the same on every truck at a given time.

The trucks made regular trips up one side of the road and back on the other. Guide lines were painted on the surface of the pavement so that the application of the load to each section was always made at the same spot. On one side of the road the truck wheels traveled exactly in the edge of the pavement, while on the other side of the road the truck wheels were kept at a point 2 feet 6 inches from the edge.

The traffic test was commenced with the trucks so loaded that the total weight on each rear wheel was 2500 pounds. After a number of trips had been made with this loading it was increased to 3500 pounds on each rear wheel.

For the sixth or final increment, the trucks were loaded to 8000 pounds upon each rear wheel, which is the legal limit in the state of Illinois for the tire width on the trucks used.

Ten thousand applications of this load were made—5000 during the daytime and 5000 at night. During this increment, many sections became so badly disintegrated that maintenance was nearly impossible. Nothing could be learned by further travel over them, so they were eliminated from the test by building a turning place at the end of the good section.

The traffic test is completed and the interesting and instructive effects on the various designs and types of pavement may now be compared.

Section one to five inclusive, all of which were brick pavements, with bituminous filler on rolled macadam base, were total failures at the end of the second increment. There were six sections in this group, four of which had macadam bases of crushed limestone four inches thick and two sections had bases eight inches thick. The thickness of the brick was three and four inches.

Most of the asphalt sections on macadam bases were decisive failures at the end of the third increment. Several of them reached their maximum carrying capacity under the second increment. These failures point conclusively to the fact that foundations of this character cannot be considered adequate for anything like main line highway traffic.

Both the brick and asphalt sections on concrete bases withstood traffic much better. At the end of the test one section of asphalt had not required maintenance. It is a 1½-inch topeda top on a 11-2-inch binder course with an 8-inch concrete base. One brick section—3 3-inch bituminous filled brick on a 5½-inch concrete base is still intact. The monolithic and semi-monolithic brick sections failed under the lighter loads, while the brick sections on concrete bases and having a sand or mastic cushion proved stronger.

Of the concrete sections, nine had not failed at the end of the traffic tests. Six had required no maintenance and three had cracked, but not badly enough to be listed as decisive failures. Two of these sections were only 5 inches thick and had a center longitudinal joint and circumferential reinforcing.

The others were 6, 7, 8 and 9 inches thick, some plain and some with circumferential reinforcing. The 4-inch sections nearly all reached their carrying capacity under the third or fourth increment.

Most of the sections in which adulterants were used failed under the second or third increment. Three of these adulterated sections were 4 inches and three were 5 inches thick.

It was noticed that in every section in which adulterations were used, serious shrinkage cracks occurred during the hardening of the concrete and these, of course, contributed to the comparatively early failure of these sections. In each case, the concrete sections without adulterants held up much longer than those of equal thickness which were adulterated. In general the thinner sections of concrete pavements practically paralleled in performance the asphalt sections having concrete bases of equal thickness.

LOTS OF GAS BUT LITTLE ROAD

All gassed up and no place to go is the predicament that a bee man in the Encino hills finds himself in. Living two miles above the Encino reservoir of the Los Angeles water department, he was taken unawares when the water level of the big bowl was raised and flooded the road. He has a car and can drive but two miles before he comes to the reservoir. He claims that a tank of gasoline will furnish joy rides for months to come. He is trying to make it last until a new road is built so that he can get out once more on the Ventura highway and enjoy himself as he did before.

OVERHEATED ENGINE

An overheated engine is caused by failure to pump, clogged radiator, running too long on low gear or leakage of water system.

VANADIUM SPRINGS MAKE CAR RIDE SMOOTHLY

Speaking of the Willys-Knight car, which make he handles in Glendale, George T. Smith, 226 South Brand boulevard, said this morning:

"The coupe and sedan, both five and seven-passenger, show to good advantage one feature in the Willys Knight design—unusually low underslung rear springs of chrome vanadium steel, making possible low center of gravity with the consequent ease of riding and freedom from side sway and skidding on curves.

"The Willys-Knight cars impress one, upon study, as triumphs of engineering skill. From whatever viewpoint they are studied, they live up to the marvelous motor under their hood.

"No car in America is easier to steer. Only one car in America, and it costs three times as much as the Willys-Knight, can boast of the same front axle construction. The fatigue of driving is eliminated by this one stroke of genius. Women find the Willys-Knight an unusually easy car to handle.

"The rear axle, always the second most important unit of any automobile is a decided feature of the Willys-Knight because of its rugged construction. The housing is of the pressed steel welded type and is designed to withstand many times the maximum load. The axle shafts on the Willys-Knight do not carry any of the car weight—the load is all carried on the heavy tubing, the axle shafts performing only the function of propelling the car.

"Nothing has been overlooked for the comfort and convenience of the passengers. One sinks into luxurious cushions as in an easy chair.

"The interior color schemes in the closed cars are rich and harmonious, while the finish of the interior metal work is practical and attractive.

"Externally there have been several refinements perfected that will add thousands of new friends to those who have had long service with the car whose motor "improves with use."

"The nickel-plated barrel cowl lights, now standard equipment on all Willy-Knight models, add a distinctive appeal, as does the nickel-plated radiator shell, surmounted by an attractive nickel-plated radiator cap with decorative design.

"The color of the finish of the hood and cowl has been changed to the distinctive Willy-Knights blue, that has so appealed to discriminating motorists and is still used on the body of the car.

"In the touring car and roadster, bright, long-grain leather of the finest grade is now standard equipment, replacing the dull pebble-grained leather, adding instant appreciation, better appearance and more durability.

"An improved design in the shape of the top, which is of high-grade waterproof material whipcord lined, lends beauty to the general attractiveness of the car's lines.

In the open cars, easily operated side curtains add to the joy of motoring. Fastened from the inside, they open with the doors.

The glass in the rear curtain is set in a nickel-plated frame. Aluminum kickpads have been added to the running boards.

A sturdier, stronger tire holder, with a Willy-Knight seal in its center and a larger gasoline tank are additions to the back of the car that lend to the all-around symmetry.

PLAN FOR CAMPING TRIP RIGHT NOW

It is never too early to think of your spring or summer camping trip in Southern California, because warm weather pops up at any time and it is well to be prepared to go by a little preliminary think, says the outing bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Motorists who are picnic or camp hounds will find much of interest in the latest report issued by this bureau of the auto club. It is well to remember, states the report, that a good night's sleep is one of the prime essentials of a comfortable and pleaeant outing journey, therefore be sure to provide a good sleping bag or mattress.

Many campers, it is pointed out, start out with only a roll of blankets having the idea of cutting fir boughs or gathering pine needles each night for their bed. This sounds fine and might look good in a book, but fir boughs are scarce in California and furthermore the forest ranger is very liable to ride up and say a few choice words about cutting them. It is not hard to find ready-made beds of comfort. One of the essentials of a pleasant camping trip, says the Auto Club, is "going light." That is to peel the camping outfit down to necessities, but not jeopardizing the comfort of a party. You should remember the weight your car will stand without straining it; remember the space you must reserve for your passengers; remember that if you pile baggage all over your passengers their minds are not going to be on the beauties of the country, but on their discomforts, and remember that all your luggage must be unpacked each night and repacked each morning. The more experienced the camper, the less plunder he carries. Experience, says the outing bureau, is the best teacher in this respect. A few trips and you begin to learn the ways and means of elimination.

OLDS FOUR DOES SOME GOOD WORK

The wonderful Oldsmobile Four, for which the C. H. Hunter company, 208-10 West Broadway, is local dealer, cut a whole lot of capers Thursday afternoon that would do credit to automobiles costing several times the price. It went through the series of tests without a hitch—the farther it went the more it was "rarin" to go.

With C. H. Hunter of the Hunter agency, and "Bob" Corrigan of the Glendale Press staff as ballast, the Olds started out from Glendale to "lay 'em low." There were no hills in Glendale that would phase the little jackrabbit, so its nose was headed toward Eagle Rock. Out East Broadway it went.

On the way over the automobile man thought he'd give the advertising hound of the Press the surprise of his life, and he did. With the Olds in high gear and without any special adjustments whatever, the Olds was throttled down to three miles an hour. Now, anyone who has ever snailed along at "3 per" knows that to do this is "some" accomplishment.

For a long way the little beast crawled along at three miles. Upon crossing an intersection, the driver with the car still in high gear and without touching the clutch, applied the gas. In less than a block and a half the car picked up to 45 miles an hour—and that with hardly a shade of vibration.

After reaching Eagle Rock, Hunter headed straight for Ellenwood drive, which has a 17 per cent grade. Up the hill the Olds started and maintained an average speed of 27 miles an hour all the way to the top. When the summit was reached, J. M. Blankenship, who also drives an Olds Four, was encountered. He, also, had made the hill on high and, in addition to enjoying the wonderful scene obtained at that place, was marveling at the ease with which his car had annexed the hill.

From the Ellenwood grade, the Olds was sent up the South Acacia street incline. This is unusually steep, but the Olds went up at 15 miles an hour without a whimper.

"I was tickled to death with the demonstration," said Corrigan, after he had returned to the Glendale Press office. "That baby Olds is surely a wonderful little car. I never saw anything to beat it. She's got the speed, the pep, the power, the acceleration, the flexibility and everything else that is needed to round out a real car.

"I'll say she's a bear."

RESALE OF USED CARS IS BIG PROBLEM

Who is going to finance the job of purchasing, re-building and re-selling 1,500,000 used automobiles in 1923? Brains of the automobile indutry, concentrated in Chicago during the annual show week, were set to whiling over this seemingly hopeless snarl when both manufacturers' and dealers' organizations came together in the first real co-operative discussion of their biggest problem.

One thing is certain. The public is not going to pay this bill unless it is absolutely forced to. Dealers in daily touch with owners made that plain. They pointed out that the man who owns a used car and expects to buy a new one has made definite plans to get the highest possible value for his old car, to turn it in as soon as possible this spring and to "shop around" until he is convinced that he has made the best deal anywhere in the market.

The fact that there are exactly half as many of these old-timers headed for the dealers' back room as there are new automobiles on national manufacturing schedules, gave the factory chiefs pause. This figure was announced by the National Dealers' Association in its final session in the La Salle Hotel. The dealers admitted that they are at the end of their resources in handling the situation and declared that only co-operative effort on the part of every division of the industry will save a possible collapse of distribution organizations during the year.

The manufacturers themselves also admitted the seriousness of the problem. They see three methods of handling it. The first is the pricing of new cars to dealers at a figure which will allow the big profit required in handling used stock. The second, already announced by J. J. Cole as an industrial surprise, is the positive refusal by big distributors to receive used cars in trade, the cutting of both factory and retail prices to make the plan attractive all around and looking to outside agencies to handle old cars. The third, considered by several of the long-sighted dealers, lies in cutting down this year's production schedule and co-operating directly with dealers in handling the situation.

President Cole of Indianapolis has come out as a pioneer for the second-named plan. He declared today that it costs too much now to put a new car in the hands of an owner and that prices can never reach bed rock until distribution costs have been cut to a minimum. Considerably over half of a dealer's profit, he said, is consumed in the used car department.

PANAMA CANAL

was opened on August 15, 1914. The canal has a length of 43.8 nautical miles from deep water in the Atlantic to deep water in the Pacific.

LOS ANGELES CO. WANTS RINDGE ROAD

One of the first results of the economy complex that dominates all the public acts of the present state administration is a jolt for one of the important road projects of Southern California.

Secretary of the Highway Commission, W. F. Mixon, gives out the statement that "the commission by formal vote has canceled the Hauser Construction Co. contract for grading 7.44 miles at a point between Mugu and the Rindge ranch road on the coast of Ventura county, which contract aggregated $622,000, and was awarded by the old commission on Decembeer 19, 1922."

The importance of this announcement lies in the fact that this short bit of abandoned construction constituted the final missing link in a scenic sea level coast route extending all the way along the ocean from Long Beach to Ventura, upon which both Ventura and Los Angeles counties, as well as the state, have already spent many thousands of dollars. It is the northern part of the Capistrano to Ventura coast highway for which the people voted a $4,000,000 bond issue in 1919, and was fast nearing completion.

After a long and bitter fight, both in and out of the courts, the right of way was finally secured through the Rindge ranch for this route. Los Angeles county immediately started construction and has built a road to the northern confines of the ranch, co-operating with the state highway engineers, who incorporated the major part of this road in the state program.

The road has been pushed with equal diligence from the end along the rocky coast to and around the precipitous towering front of Point Mugu, where the road is carried above the waves on a gallery carved out of the mountain.

There remains but this short link of seven and one-half miles to complete this wonderful coast drive, which has been compared to the famous drive along the Mediterranean.

Will Southern California stand for it?

Supervisor R. F. McClellan of Los Angeles county says it will not and he knows whereof he speaks. It is too early to say just what action will be taken, but there is no doubt that the southern counties interested in this particular road will make their voices heard in a powerful chorus of protest. Here is what Supervisor McClelland says:

"It is a crime to cancel this contract just as we have got things in shape so that the work can go on to a speedy competition. The people voted $4,000,000 for that road and this is something we can't stand for in Southern California."

Aside from being a water level route to Ventura, avoiding all steep grades for heavy hauling between Los Angeles and that city, the early completion of this highway is a veritable necessity for several thousand residents along the route. In addition this road will afford a much needed relief to the increasing congestion of the Ventura state highway.

BUY TIRES NOW TO SAVE REAL MONEY

"Now is the time to stock up with tires for the touring season," said the manager of the Auto Tire Company, 143 South Brand boulevard, this morning. "Rubber for the automobile will never be cheaper than it is at this time. The tendency of the price of tires at this time is, as it has been for the past several months, upward. This tendency, augmented by the call for tires that will be made at the opening of the touring season will doubtless result in a price raise on all tires and tubes.

"Up to this time the prices on all our tires have remained stationary, although other houses have been compelled to increase the cost of their casings. Our prices cannot remain stationary for a great while longer. When the present stock has been exhausted we may be compelled to place our figures higher.

"There is only one way to get the benefit of the present low prices and that is to buy now."

The Life of Your Car

Your automobile lives a long life of usefulness, or not, depending upon what is done to keep it fit to meet its daily duties.

What can be done depends upon who cares. Some car owners have to hunt for someone who cares enough to really accept responsibility for the car's performance. Properly, that responsibility rests squarely upon the man who sells the car.

When you buy a MAXWELL here, you acquire a splendid automobile and the cooperation of an organization that backs its assurance of good performance with the ability to provide everything the car will ever need.

OPEN EVENINGS

FRISCO AUTO SHOW WILL BE BIG EVENT

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—The talk of the trade these days is San Francisco's automobile show, which opens in the great Municipal Auditorium February 17, next. George Wahlgren, manager of the seventh annual Pacific automobile show, has been an artful dodger the last few weeks. He has been on the jump avoiding those who demand space in the show that has been oversold for months.

The only space that is available is in the basement of the big building and there will be some well-known cars there this year, as well as a most complete line of trucks. In the accessory division, there has been a lack of space ever since the fall months. It is not a question of selling space but a problem of accommodating the space to the thousands who want it.

L. M. Stewart, manager of the Willys-Overland Pacific company, will have his brand new models on display at the show. They have graced the salesrooms floor here for a week or so and have attracted much attention. The new cars were displayed at the Oakland automobile show last month for the first time on the Pacific coast and made a wonderful impression. The new Willys-Knight coach-sedan, which seats five, with a lot of room for baggage and a trunk in the rear has created unusual attention. It is a brand new addition to the line and has made a great hit.

Bert Latham, Stutz distributor in this part of the world, has been busy lining up his organization with the new Stutz six cylinder car. Latham, who used to drive racing cars in the day of dirt tracks and huge motors, has tried his best to break up one of these new cars and has failed dismally. He has sold many of the new machines and expects a record business during the year. This is the first time the Stutz people have departed from the four cylinder field, and they have done a good job.

Carl Simpson, manager of the Pacific Nash Motors company, is now at the Kenosha plant of the company and trying to induce his boss to ship him a million or two Nash cars. So insistent is he that he wired all the dealers in this part of the state asking them how many cars they could take for immediate delivery. He wants to get enough for a trainload or so and has already contracted for one trainload and wants to get another. There are few Nash cars on hand here or anywhere else in the country and the factory is behind on orders.

The display of Durant fours and sixes will be an interesting feature of the automobile show, according to officials at the factory. A new dealer will be named in San Francisco next week and his name is awaited with interest. It will probably be the Durant-Steves Motors, Inc., which took over the retail business throughout this territory. Advances in prices have not bothered them nor will they in the future.

The closing of the Oakland automobile show January 20th marked the end of a perfect week for the motor car dealers in the East Bay cities. Manager Robert W. Martland reports better attendance than for the 1922 show, with a wave of buying that is little short of marvelous. The dealers sold 274 cars during the eight days of the motor show.

A. M. Scholk, well-known motor car expert, has been appointed sales manager of the Willys-Overland Pacific company's branch in San Francisco. He comes well recommended with a sales record that will be hard to beat.

Capt. Al Waddell, advertising manager of the Durant Motor company of California, spent a busy week in Portland, writing copy for the papers there and taking care of the automobile show stuff.

C. M. Steves and A. L. Warmington returned from the east last week. They are high officials of the Durant Motors of California. They visited the New York show and report tremendous crowds and sales too.

San Francisco is forging ahead rapidly as an automobile center. For the first time in years, Northern California outsold Southern California in passenger cars during December of last year.

CALIFORNIA LEADS WORLD IN AUTOS

California is the biggest motor car using state in the union. Official figures just received for 1922 puts the Golden State at the top of the list with 803,710 passenger cars registered as compared with 779,965 for New York. Pennsylvania is third with 714,000; Ohio fourth, with 741,000; Illinois fifth, with 686,466, and Michigan sixth, with 518,538.

California's gain in passenger cars registered over 1921, is 140,449, which is an increase of 21 per cent.

Registrations of passenger cars and trucks in the United States in 1922 totaled 12,357,376, a gain of 1,834,981 motor vehicles over 1921, which represented an increase of 17.4 per cent.

Without the chance of dispute California is the banner automobile state. In the number of passenger car registrations in the proportion of its passenger cars to its population it stands without a peer.

The registration figures for 1922 show that the Golden State had 234 passenger cars in use to every 1,000 of population. In other words on the basis of California's passenger cars registrations in 1922 as compared with her 1920 census population one out of every 4.22 of her citizens owns an automobile.

Sales of new cars also show eye-opening facts. For all of California new sales during 1922 were 151,633 as compared with 103,560 in 1921. The figures were 47,579 in Northern and 44,981 in Southern California in 1921 as against 67,708 and 83,925 respectively last year.

This was an increase of 46 per cent for the entire state, a gain of 42 per cent for the upper and 49 per cent for the lower half. How big was this increase may be judged from the fact that New York state's gain last year over 1921 was less than 25 per cent and New York City's increase was only about 20 per cent.

Some gains of individual makes in Southern California will illustrate and emphasize the growth of the automobile business in the Golden State. For instance Willys-Knight sales jumped from 431 to 1,410, a gain of 229 per cent. Its "side-kick," Overland, went from 1,323 to 2,207, an increase of 66 per cent, a big gain for a quantity production car.

Buying of Haynes, a quality car, rose from 178 to 328, an increase of 78 percent.

Durant, despite the fact that it did not really get into production until rather late in the year, showed 1,418 sales of cars of this name before 1922 closed.

STAR CAR WINS BIG FAVOR OF FANS

The rapidity with which the Star car has won the confidence of the peeple of this city demonstrates conclusively that it is one of the finest cars on the market today for the money. It has been with the public but a short time, but the motoring public has already learned that the Star is a machine that can be absolutely relied upon.

The Star has a climbing ability that is all its own. It is a regular little grade eater. Its flexibility, also, is a feature that is being emphasized by its owners. It is very easily operated.

And the best thing about a Star is that it really stands up, not simply on paper, but in actual operation.

TRY THIS AUTO SHINE

Here is a dandy formula for a polish for the automobile: Mix one part of turpentine with two parts of boiled linseed oil. Apply small quantity on a small piece of waste and polish with dry waste or cloth.

IGNITION TROUBLES

Ignition sometimes fails because of the battery; other reasons are burned-out or wet coils, ignition points pitted or struck, motor burned out, fouled plugs or broken porcelains, loose connections somewhere or an out-and-out break in the wire.

HOW TO REVERSE AUTO IS TOLD

Can you reverse properly? All motorists cannot. Here are the required movements:

After the car has come to a standstill—

Throw out clutch.

Release brake.

Move gear, shift lever to reverse position.

IF TIRES ARE CUT REPAIR THEM PROMPTLY

Small cuts in tires, not over a half inch may be repaired with a tread filler. For longer cuts, especially when the face of the fabric is laid bare, vulcanization is essential. Every cut in the thread should be thoroughly cleaned out before being repaired. A cloth soaked in gasoline may be used for wiping out the cut, and then a bit of cloth on the end of a screwdriver may be used for removing any dirt lurking inside. Next, a coat of cement should be applied to the sides and botoom of the cut. After this has dried, a second coat should be applied, and when this is thoroughly dry, tire filler shoulld be inserted. A piece of filler may be worked into the cut with the blade of a knife, the mass being leveled off with the surface of the cut. If the tire has to be used immediately, a small piece of cloth or paper should be cemented over the filler so that it will not pick up dirt on the road.

The DOBLE STEAM MOTOR CAR STEAM
Will be in February 12, 13, 14 and 15

PACKER AUTO COMPANY
Studebaker Showroom
THE DOBLE STEAM MOTOR CAR is so astonishingly superior to any other automobile that it cannot be measured by the same standards!
For years engineers have dreamed of a perfect automobile—a car that would be simple in construction and operation, economical to drive, silent and luxurious at all speeds. A car of few moving parts, without the bother of self starter, clutch and gear shift, a car that would thread its way through traffic with the ease of a pedestrian, a car the success of which would be ABSOLUTELY ASSURED, because it would IMPROVE TRANSPORTATION.
Today Abner Doble has perfected such a car in his master creation and has successfully harnessed the world's greatest motive power—STEAM—to automotive transportation in a way that bids fair to completely revolutionize the standards of the motor world!
Speed
The car is geared one-and-a-half to one and has a road speed of 75 miles per hour in reserve.
Its acceleration is simply astonishing. It is possible to attain 60 miles per hour from a standing start in a shorter space of time than any other car operating today.
Simplicity
The entire power plant contains but 36 moving parts. There is no clutch, gear shift, self-starter, transmission or universal joints. The car is controlled by the operation of a single lever; starts from absolutely "cold" in 30 seconds by merely turning on an electric switch.
Economy
The Doble car burns kerosene, distillate or gasoline without adjustment. Wonderful oil economy—500 miles to the pint—or 4,000 miles per gallon—2,000 to 3,000 miles on one filling of water—30% increased tire mileage.
True, these are astounding facts, but the Doble car performs in accordance with every one of these statements.
Durability
The power plant of the Doble car carries a guarantee of 100,000 miles. At 35 miles per hour the Doble motor is turning but 545 revolutions per minute, compared with the average gas car motor, turning 1,800 to 2,200 revolutions at the same speed. Vibration is eliminated in the Doble car.
Climbing Ability
The stock Doble carries a steam pressure of 750 pounds. The locomotive that rushes the "Owl" to San Francisco requires 200 pounds pressure. Steam pressure is irresistible, and responds most startlingly on the steepest hill.
In short, the Doble Steam Motor is completely beyond comparison for hill work.

A LITTLE POINTER NOW AND THEN

Here are afew pointers for the motorists:

Don't tinker with an engine that doesn't need it.

Never crank downward—always pull up against compression, to avoid personal injury.

Gasoline should always be strained through chamois to prevent dirt or water from getting into the carburetor.

Water should be strained into radiator, on account of the small specks therein which might cause trouble. It is advisable to flush out raidator about once a month.

Cold water should not be put into a hot radiator, as it is liable to open its joints or crack the cylinder. Use warm water or let radiator cool.

Never allow a plumber or inexperienced man repair the radiator. The work requires a specialty man, and only one experienced should be trusted with it.

Lubrication is the most important part of the machine aside from the mechanism itself. Use only the best oils and greases—poor oil is expensive at any price. Lack of proper lubrication wears out a car rapidly.

TAKE CARE WHEN YOU MEET CATTLE

Motorists of Southern California are asked to have a heart when they come face to face with herds of livestock moving along the highways of this part of the state.

According to officials of the Auto Club of Southern California, much consternation has been caused among cattle men by the thoughtless actions of auto drivers when they encounter herds of cattle being driven from the ranges to shipping points.

In fact, the Auto Club has received a communication from the California Cattlemens' Association asking the organization to bring to the attention of the motoring public some word of caution in regard to the situation which confronts the southern counties of California at this time. It is said that much serious loss of time is occasioned stock raisers who find it necessary to move cattle over the highways by the carelessness or motorists plowing through the moving herds at a high rate of speed or with a lot of unnecessary noise.

As the cattlemen explain in the letter to the Auto Club, they are not using the highways as a matter of choice, but as a matter of necessity, and they are only asking for consideration on the part of the motoring public. Club officials suggest that motorists coming upon cattle or sheep herds on the roads either slow down very materially or stop at the side of the road until the herd has passed, as the danger is soon over and little loss of time will be caused.

Upon encountering even a few domestic cows on the highways, it is well to remember that you never can tell just which way one of these animals is likely to jump, and they are just as likely to give a leap in front of an auto as not, so it is well to proceed in such a case with as much care and consideration as possible for the saftey of the motor car as well as for the safety of the cattle.

IF MOTOR WON'T START TRY THESE

If you find it impossible to start the engine, the trouble may be in the following:

Gasoline shut off.
Battery switch open or plug out.
Poor gas mixture.
Improper ignition.
Poor gasoline.
Spark plus fouled or broken.

DOORS NOW OPEN WIDE TO AUTOISTS

The doors of California are to be swung wide and a welcome extended to every tourist who wishes to bask in its sunshine and enjoy its flowers, according to Will H. Marsh, director of the Division of Motor Vehicles.

The system of compelling those who enter California's borders to submit their cars to officers of the department for immediate engine inspection is to be abandoned. Residents of other states entering California will be asked to register their machines and will be granted an emblem from the state of California showing such registration upon proper identification.

Until they desire to register their machine under the laws of California or transfer it to a resident of the state, engine inspection will not be demanded. For this reason the head of the department sounds a warning to all dealers and all contemplated purchasers of machines registered from other states that no such purchase should be made unless the machine has been properly registered under the laws of California. To do so is taking a long chance which may result in loss to the buyer.

The tourist privilege is granted in order that the visitor to California may travel its highways unmolested by traffic officers, but such registration in no wise guarantees the title of the car in its operator.

GET YOUR NAME PLATE HOLDER AT ONCE

The Monarch Auto Supply Company is making special prices on auto license plate holders this week and every autoist in Glendale and vicinity should have one. This particular plate offered by this reliable firm is made of the best steel and is nickle plated. There is also a nice space on the plate where the name of your home town may be engraved, and this feature alone should sell many license holders.

The clearance sale recently put on by the Monarch Supply Company was a big success and demonstrated that the people of Glendale respond very liberally to any special effort by this dependable firm. The Monarch Supply Company carries one of the largest and best stocks of automobile accessories and supplies to be found in Southern California.

TAKE NO CHANCES, SAYS MURPHY-DONER

"Why take chances with your own and the other fellow's life, when a few minutes' attention to your brakes might eliminate that danger," says the Murphy-Doner Service garage, 312 South Brand.

"We are agents for the Johns-Maranville Non-burn asbestos brake band lining, and we are equipped to give your brakes the attention they should have. The wise motorist will not delay the matter of having his brakes put in first-class shape. We make inspections free."

HOW TO HANDLE THE DYING MOTOR

If the car stops gradually, maybe the following is responsible for the trouble:

Carburetor difficulties.
Gasoline, shut off, or supply pipe partially closed or stopped up.
Poor gasoline.
Spark plugs fouled or broken.
